SPEC Kits
Supporting Effective Library Management for Nearly 40 Years

Committed to assisting research and academic libraries in the continuous improvement of management systems, ARL has worked since 1970 to gather and disseminate the best practices for library needs. As part of its commitment, ARL maintains an active publications program best known for its SPEC Kits. Through the Collaborative Research/Writing Program, librarians work with ARL staff to design SPEC surveys and write publications. Originally established as an information source for ARL member libraries, the SPEC Kit series has grown to serve the needs of the library community worldwide.

What are SPEC Kits?
Published six times per year, SPEC Kits contain the most valuable, up-to-date information on the latest issues of concern to libraries and librarians today. They are the result of a systematic survey of ARL member libraries on a particular topic related to current practice in the field. Each SPEC Kit contains an executive summary of the survey results; survey questions with tallies and selected comments; the best representative documents from survey participants, such as policies, procedures, handbooks, guidelines, Web sites, records, brochures, and statements; and a selected reading list—both print and online sources—containing the most current literature available on the topic for further study.

Subscribe to SPEC Kits
Subscribers tell us that the information contained in SPEC Kits is valuable to a variety of users, both inside and outside the library. SPEC Kit purchasers use the documentation found in SPEC Kits as a point of departure for research and problem solving because they lend immediate authority to proposals and set standards for designing programs or writing procedure statements. SPEC Kits also function as an important reference tool for library administrators, staff, students, and professionals in allied disciplines who may not have access to this kind of information.

SPEC Kits are available in print and online. For more information visit: http://www.arl.org/resources/pubs/. The executive summary for each kit after December 1993 can be accessed free of charge at http://www.arl.org/resources/pubs/spec/complete.shtml.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Introduction
In alignment with ARL’s strategic focus Transforming Research Libraries, designed to articulate, promote, and facilitate new and expanding roles for ARL libraries that enable and enrich the transformations affecting research and research-intensive education, this study has probed the nature of administrative positions that support accomplishing these objectives. The ongoing evolution within these organizations and the roles of those who work in them is mirrored in the administrative structure of the academic library. Two decades ago, it was largely the library director who managed the organization, perhaps with assistance from an associate in public and technical services, or from a single deputy. The metamorphosis of higher education has put new demands on libraries to be agile, engaged, and responsive in diverse ways. Hernon, Powell, and Young (2001) have described the university library director’s role as a position in transition over this same period. The library’s chief executive now has additional challenges and responsibilities: defining the strategic direction of the organization, articulating its vision, and participating more explicitly in the academic life of the parent institution. As a result, aspects of library management and leadership are being taken on more fully by members of a senior administrative team possessing a skill set that enables them to manage what once was exclusively director-level work.

This survey focused on the professional, administrative, and management positions that report directly to the library director (or in some ARL member libraries the position that serves as the representative to the association), positions that have not been examined by a SPEC survey since 1984. It explored the responsibilities of these positions, and the skills, qualifications, and competencies necessary for these administrators to successfully lead a transforming 21st century research library. It looked at whether and how position requirements have changed in the past decade, whether the number of direct reports has changed, whether these administrators have assumed new areas of organizational responsibility, and how they acquire the new skills to fulfill those responsibilities. Forty-six of the 126 member libraries responded to the survey between March 12 and April 16 for a response rate of 37%.

Titles and Responsibilities of Senior-Level Positions
The survey asked respondents to identify which senior positions reported directly to the library director in 2007 and in 2012. The positions identified have a variety of titles, including deputy director, associate director, vice provost, and director, manager, or head of a division, department, or branch library. Overall, the number of positions reporting to the director has not changed in the past five years; however, many libraries are changing senior administrative-level responsibilities and the titles of those reporting to the director. All but three of the libraries responding to the survey (95%) have altered senior administrative-level positions or introduced new positions in the past five years. Of those, 25 (58%) have changed half to all of their positions, and 13 (30%) have made only minor changes. There is also a significant elevation in the titles of positions reporting to library directors, moving away from head and assistant titles to associate and director titles, with the number of deputy librarian titles remaining the same during the 2007 to 2012 study period. Position titles are also being recast anew, using descriptive language such as digital content, collections, learning, instruction, and user services, rather than the more generic “public services” or “technical services” that were used more frequently as recently as five years ago.

New titles also reflect changes in scope and focus. Positions with responsibility for scholarly communication and publishing have more than doubled during the five-year period studied, and a significant increase in positions with responsibility for digital content and services is apparent. While public and technical services titles seem to be on a downtrend, the survey finds that administrative service roles are being defined more broadly in terms of organizational development and planning, with evidence of a slight increase in positions with direct responsibility for assessment. The majority of positions identified as being redesigned or new since 2007 primarily emphasize the areas of education, user services, scholarly communications, and collections. Positions dealing with collections are now often being paired with other responsibilities such as scholarly communication, user services, or access services. Eight of the 25 new positions identified in the survey have responsibility for scholarly communication, publishing, or copyright.

Seventeen of the responding libraries (44%) have at least one position that took on either supervision of areas or specific functions that were previously under the director’s purview. Over half of these stated that other senior-level positions took on primary supervisory responsibilities for areas that previously reported directly to the library director. Other changes included taking on direct responsibility for functions, such as strategic planning, budget, development, and human resources, previously within the director’s domain.

Future Plans for Administrative-Level Positions

Almost half of the respondents (19, or 45%) indicated that they anticipate redesigning or creating a new senior administrative position in the next three years. Of those institutions, a few could not foretell the primary area of responsibility for the redesigned or newly created role. Three institutions reported it is simply too early to know; another three are in the midst of reorganizing or awaiting the arrival of a new library director. Those institutions that could declare primary areas of focus for new senior positions most often mentioned strategic planning, followed by public services, collections, and organizational development. Also mentioned were senior positions in the area of facilities, fundraising and development, planning, assessment, and statistics.

Over three quarters of the respondents (33, or 79%) indicated that if a vacancy in a senior administrative position were to occur, it would prompt a redesign of the position before further recruitment was contemplated. Positions are most often redesigned to meet evolving or unmet needs within the organization, such as changes in service delivery or emerging technologies and their impact on access to information and learning. Redesign of positions is also prompted by changes in and the need to re-align with the strategic planning priorities (both in the library and on the campus) and, in some cases, to balance workloads and capitalize on existing knowledge, skills, and abilities. Only one response indicated that senior portfolios are regularly shifted if vacancies occur. Seemingly, lateral shifts in responsibilities of senior administrative positions are uncommon. While some responses indicated that senior staff members work as a team to ensure smooth internal functioning, there is also the sense that positions are highly specialized. Soft skills, such as communication or the ability to work with change are clearly valued in all senior positions; specialized technical skills still seem to be highly associated with some specific senior roles.

Overall, in the event of a vacancy or the creation of a new senior administrative position, the responding libraries expect to recruit from other research libraries (39, or 91%). Internal candidates are viewed favorably by a majority of institutions (29, or 67%). A few libraries indicated that it really depends upon the position as to whether they would go outside of research libraries (12, or 28%) or even outside the library profession (8, or 19%) in order to recruit into a new senior position. While these findings are not unexpected, it seems clear that the pool of potential candidates for senior-level positions is relatively small and that few research libraries expect to invest in candidates outside the confines of the research library field. These candidates may also tend to be known quantities and could be seen to lower the risk of making a bad or unsuitable hire.

Necessary Skills and Qualifications

Responses to the open-ended survey question about what skills senior library administrators must acquire to manage the 21st century research library emphasized soft skills and personal competencies, particularly strategic planning, change management, vision, and big picture thinking, aligned with keeping up with trends in libraries and higher education. They stressed the importance of leadership (including campus leadership), as opposed to management, although some respondents also spoke to the need for understanding the complexities of budget, funding, and management of human and material resources, including collections. The need to have excellent communication and interpersonal skills is clearly indicated, along with the need for flexibility and adaptability. Collaboration, internal to the institution and with external partners, was also emphasized, and entrepreneurial skills were highlighted. Respondents mentioned more than once that understanding emerging technologies is necessary, with some references to having an understanding of and leadership in scholarly communication, e-publishing, digitization, and digital management and curation. Respondents also stressed the need for senior administrative staff to view the operation of the library as a whole, to work as a team, and to ensure the internal productivity, operational efficiencies, and alignment necessary to accomplish the library’s strategic goals and objectives. Overall, these are demanding and complex responsibilities, and the onus seems to be upon the staff in these positions to (as one respondent summarized) “identify opportunities and challenges and to develop strategic solutions and directions” as well as to work collaboratively to promote and safeguard the organizational health of the whole enterprise.

All but one of the respondents reported that senior library administrators acquired the skills necessary for their jobs through participation in professional developmental opportunities, such as the Research Libraries Leadership Fellows (RLLF) Program, the Harvard Leadership Institute for Academic Librarians, or the Frye Leadership Institute (though survey respondents were not asked if they had sent staff to an institute or which institute was regarded as most highly desirable). Reading the professional literature (93%), attending professional conferences (91%), and professional networking (91%) were similarly important. Of the other methods that were described, the most common revolved around practice and on-the-job experience. The importance of mentoring relationships (with other library leaders and campus administrators) was also underscored, as were in-house leadership training opportunities. A few responses also stressed the importance of advanced degrees and graduate coursework. Since research libraries view internal candidates for senior positions favorably, the responses around experiential or on-the-job learning aligned with in-house training opportunities and mentoring are not unexpected and seem to indicate a willingness to develop and promote a strong cadre of internal candidates. Should the demand arise, these candidates are then also available for recruitment into other research libraries.

Necessary Qualities and Attributes

From a list adapted from one designed by Hernon, Powell, and Young (2001) to describe the managerial and leadership attributes of university library directors from the perspective of assistant directors, survey respondents were asked to select specific qualities and attributes that senior library administrators may need to perform effectively in their positions (and that may not be captured in a position description). Overall, there was very high agreement with the qualities and attributes that Hernon, Powell, and Young identified but with a few key differences. Makes tough decisions was the most highly rated managerial attribute in this survey as it was in the Hernon, Powell, and Young list, with Communicates effectively with staff immediately following in both lists. Manages fiscal resources/budgets was also ranked highly in both. Respondents to this survey indicated that Delegates authority and Nurtures the development of new programs and services/refines existing ones as needed are very important. These qualities and attributes are very much in keeping with the role of senior library administrators who must work through... and with staff to accomplish objectives. Is results oriented and Ensures that planned action is implemented and evaluated were also associated with the roles and responsibilities of those second in command.

Attributes associated with leadership, such as Develops a campus visibility for the library, Is able to function in a political environment, Builds a shared vision for the library, and Manages/shapes change were highly rated in both studies. However, Changes/shapes the library’s culture appeared near the bottom of the rankings on the Hernon, Powell, and Young list, and was the attribute most highly rated as desirable for senior administrative personnel in this study of qualities and attributes for those who manage 21st century research libraries. The attribute Is an advocate for the library, which was highest on the Hernon, Powell, and Young list, was near the middle of attributes for senior library administrators identified in this study. These discrepancies seem to highlight the differences between roles of library directors who have a primarily external focus and those of senior library administrators who work to manage and change organizational culture to support accomplishing the library’s internal goals and objectives. However, the high degree of concordance of desirable attributes and qualities for library directors and senior library administrators overall is noteworthy, and seems to validate the perspective that the senior-level roles in research libraries do act as a pipeline to director positions, assuming that the candidate does indeed possess and can demonstrate these characteristics.

A few of the other qualities and attributes that were identified by survey respondents are personal traits focused on setting a tone within the organization. For instance, Bravery, A strong sense of right and wrong, High expectations of individuals and teams, and The promotion of civility and collegiality within the organization were all mentioned. These are somewhat analogous to the list of personal characteristics also identified by Hernon, Powell, and Young but not used for this survey’s purposes. For example, Treats people with dignity/respect, Is honest, and Inspires trust were all most highly ranked by the Hernon, Powell, and Young respondents. Seemingly, both library directors and senior library administrators are expected to exhibit similar personal characteristics and traits.

Case Studies

The survey asked respondents to select one of the positions that was redesigned or created since 2007 and provide additional information about changes to its responsibilities and scope. The 38 case studies describe a broad range of senior-level positions. The associate university librarian and associate dean level positions are the most frequent. The complete list of levels is below.

- Assistant Dean 4
- Assistant Director 2
- Associate Dean 9
- Associate Director 2
- Associate University Librarian 11
- Associate Vice Provost 1
- Deputy Director 1
- Director 6
- Officer 1
- Project Manager 1

The primary areas of emphasis of these positions break down as follows:

- Academic Affairs 1
- Administrative Services 4
- Assessment/Planning 1
- Budget/Finance 1
- Collections 6
- Digital Initiatives 2
- Facilities/Branches 2
- Information Technology 2
- Marketing/Communications 1
- Public/User Services 3
- Research/Education 4
- Scholarly Communication 5

Note, however, that some positions creatively combine multiple areas of oversight, such as administrative services and faculty affairs (Case 24), information technology and finance (Case 26), and public services and facilities (Case 25).

Responses to the question about when the position was created or redesigned indicate that roles were redefined fairly continuously throughout the 2007 to 2012 period. During this period, the critical mass of position restructuring occurred between 2010 and 2011, which co-incidentally aligns with the Transforming Research Libraries work that was being undertaken by ARL. Library administration reorganization, changes to library operations, and strategic planning were cited as the top three drivers for changing position responsibilities.

It appears that there was little change in reporting structure, despite redesign or creation of administrative positions. In 28 of the 38 cases (74%), largely the same units and departments that reported to the original position report to the new one. The number of direct reports to senior administrative positions varies considerably, and it is not clear from the data whether respondents provided the number of direct reports or all reports in a senior portfolio.

A review of the case study data suggests that some trends are emerging in ARL libraries. New positions in traditionally named areas such as public services and technical services seem clearly on the wane, though the dearth of these identifiers could be attributed to the fact that such positions already exist in many of the reporting institutions so are not now being created. The same can be said for information technology, a term used in just four (11%) of the new position titles. Interestingly, however, public services skills and responsibilities are cited as important in five cases (13%) and technical services in eight (21%).

User services is an emphasis in eight new positions (21%). Outreach is a focus of six positions (16%), which include responsibility for communication, public relations, and marketing. Four new positions (11%) have substantial responsibility for teaching and learning; three more (8%) focus on undergraduates. Only one (3%) mentions distance education. Scholarly communication is a focus of seven positions and digital collections of eight (18% and 21%, respectively). Open access is noted as a responsibility in just three of these cases (8%); e-publishing in just one (3%). Nine positions (24%) include responsibility for strategic planning, policy development, or assessment. Managing data is a component of six positions (16%), though the term “data” is used in a variety of ways. Of those, two positions (5%) include some responsibility for work on grants. Human resources is a focus of five positions (13%), though organizational development, staff development, and staff training are mentioned just once each.

The range of other areas emphasized in senior-level positions seems to suggest that libraries are undergoing much individual transformation and that they are restructuring positions in ways designed to meet local needs and capitalize on in-house talents. For example, a reduction in senior-level administrative positions led to vesting responsibility for all branch libraries in a single branch head (Case 30); a planning and assessment officer was created to centralize operations that had previously been dispersed (Case 38); restructuring to eliminate silos and facilitate succession planning led to increased responsibilities for a senior associate dean position (Case 22). Because case studies by their nature provide specific information that is unique to a particular environment, it is most useful to review the data provided by individual institutions, compiled in the tables on pages 35 through 51.

Conclusion

While it is clear that ARL libraries have been busy rethinking senior administrative positions in the past five years, there is no single trend or direction emerging from the changes reported by survey respondents. Positions are being carefully reviewed as they become vacant or as they are created, and the manner in which the position is filled clearly depends upon the needs and strategic direction of the particular institution. Senior jobs still tend to be highly specialized and there doesn’t seem to be evidence of job rotation; administrators continue to be defined by their particular role and seemingly don’t move laterally into other senior positions. Organizational structures remain centralized... hierarchies in most organizations. The small growth in the average number of senior positions in ARL organizations may be indicative of growth in the size of the organization or simply reflect new ways of viewing and describing responsibilities within organizations. It may indicate the effect of the economic downturn on library budgets. Senior roles now emphasize soft skills and some, such as facility with change management, are particularly critical; yet these are challenging to identify in recruitment.

It is clear that research libraries view effective leadership of senior-level administrators as essential to the success of the organization. As libraries continue to transform and adapt to fulfill their 21st century mandate, it is important that a well-developed senior administrative team is ready to map strategic priorities, shape the library culture, and manage change. Investment in training and other professional development opportunities is key to the agility of those in senior-level roles.
Survey Questions and Responses

The SPEC Survey on the Changing Role of Senior Administrators was designed by Julie Garrison, Associate Dean for Research and Instructional Services, Grand Valley State University, Kathleen DeLong, Associate University Librarian for Human Resources and Teaching/Learning at the University of Alberta, and Marianne Ryan, Associate University Librarian for Public Services at Northwestern University. These results are based on data submitted by 46 of the 126 ARL member libraries (37%) by the deadline of April 16, 2012. The survey’s introductory text and questions are reproduced below, followed by the response data and selected comments from the respondents.

In 2000, SPEC Kit 256 The Changing Roles of Library Professionals examined how job descriptions had been redesigned to address technological advances, changes in libraries’ focus, and redefined institutional goals. The environment continues to change for libraries and the users they serve, and research libraries are implementing strategies to ensure their workforce has the skills and competencies to further the mission of their libraries and institutions. To support these efforts, ARL is focusing on the “next generation” workforce and the new skills required to design and manage the 21st century research library.

This survey focuses on the professional, administrative, and management positions that report directly to the library director (or in some ARL member libraries the position that serves as the representative to the association), positions that have not been examined by a SPEC survey since 1984. These positions have a variety of designations, including deputy director, associate director, vice president, and director, manager, or head of a division, department, or branch library. For the purposes of this survey, these will be referred to as senior administrative positions and the incumbents as senior library administrators.

The survey explores the responsibilities of these positions, and the skills, qualifications, and competencies necessary for these administrators to successfully lead a transforming 21st century research library. It looks at whether and how position requirements have changed in the past decade, whether the number of direct reports has changed, whether these administrators have assumed new areas of organizational responsibility, and how they acquire the new skills to fulfill those responsibilities. The survey authors will mine the submitted job descriptions, organization charts, and other documents for details on how the role of these positions have changed.

Redesigned Position

- As a result of 21st century realities for research libraries.
- Attempt to flatten the organization, move the responsibility further into the organization.
- Copyright Policy Advisor: increasing complexity of campus and library issues related to copyright.
- Death of a staff member.
Every time an employee leaves, there are opportunities to change and improve functions and roles.

Executive Officer; Executive Assistant; Associate University Librarian, Collections and Research.

New Dean of Libraries: reorganizing administration of the Libraries.

New Dean of the University Libraries who has started to reorganize some of our operations.

New library director plus retirement or resignation of all previous assistant directors.

Reconsideration of roles following an AUL vacancy.

Reflects recommendations of an external consultant. To maintain a balanced budget (neither increase, nor decrease), an associate director position has not been filled and therefore responsibilities needed to be shifted. To achieve more integration of like operations with potential for collaboration and synergies. To pursue greater consistency within the Libraries, to meet users expectations.

The university hired a new dean of university libraries. Also, decreased recruitment activities and increased emphasis on data-driven decision making resulted in the HR librarian position being abolished.

New Position

Executive director of computing services is a university computing services position detailed 1/2 time to supervise library computing activities and support, in order to merge these core hardware support services with those of central computing and realize efficiencies on campus and to improve interchange of information in the academic computing sphere.

Hiring freeze.

Integration of the Health Science Center Libraries with the George A. Smathers Libraries. New Dean of Libraries: reorganizing administration of the Libraries.

One new position, Endowed Chair in Information Literacy, came about through a $2.5M gift to endow this position.

Retirement of a staff member.

See above. New library director plus retirement or resignation of all previous assistant directors.

The planning and implementation of the programs and services of the Digital Library (opened in 2011) were the drivers for creating the positions of Program Director, TFDL and Technology Officer, TFDL.

If yes, please specify the position(s) and briefly describe which of the director’s responsibilities it took on. N=17

Associate University Librarian, Public Services. Took on the administration of public services throughout all unit libraries, including access services (ILL, shelving).

AUL for Digital Initiatives and Open Access: direct supervision and coordination of cataloging, electronic resources, and campus open access initiative and development of institutional repository. AUL for Undergraduate and Distance Services: role in campus distance services coordinating committee; direct supervision of circulation department. AUL for Graduate and Research Services: direct supervision of branches.

Deputy Director took over the special collections department and administrative services office, as well as a greater role in strategic planning and running the library when the director was absent.

Direct supervision of several department/unit level areas was transferred from the dean to the AD’s. Specifically, supervision of archives, records management, manuscripts, and rare books were assigned to the AD for Research and Education Services; supervision of preservation and off-site storage was assigned to the AD for Collections and Access. The AD for Technical Services position was eliminated, with those responsibilities transferred to the AD for Collections and Access.

Director, HR: greater involvement in faculty recruitment and other collegial processes.

Director of Communications: external communications, on and off campus.

Executive Associate Dean: Budget responsibilities, became second for the dean (represented dean in her absence or as assigned), supervision of integrated user services, which had been part of reference and instructional services. Associate Dean for Collections: Took over supervision of technical services, collection development and management. Associate Dean for Scholarly Communications and Research Services: Took over supervision of library technology services (renamed library system), digital library initiatives and scholarly communications (had been part of other departments) and reference services (renamed research services) and head, research and grants. The department heads of the above units had reported to the dean and now report to one of the associate deans. Many of the departments have been reorganized and renamed since 2007 but none report directly to the dean any longer. Special collections is the only exception.

Facilities Project Manager took on planning, implementing, and liaising construction of new library building.

Finance and budgeting.

Oversight of development operations.

Public services, access services.

Research.

Some direct reports moved to the associate dean.

The Associate University Librarian for Digital Services now supervises the director of the Digital Library Development Center, who formerly reported to the director.

The AUL for Special Collections assumed shared responsibility (with the university librarian) for development activities.

The AUL, Organizational Development took on oversight of budget, HR, marketing, and development.

The redesigned Director of Special Collections Research Center assumed supervision of both the urban archives (formerly with its own head reporting to the dean) and of the university art consultant (formerly reporting to the dean).
Case Studies

Please answer the following questions about the senior administrative position identified above that has been redesigned or created since 2007. If more than one position has been redesigned or created, please choose one of the positions.

Please enter the title of the position and the year this position was created.

Please indicate which departments or units of the library and how many individuals reported to the position in 2007 (or in the year it was created) and how many currently report to this position.

Please briefly describe the responsibilities, scope, and/or focus of the redesigned or newly created position, indicating the most significant changes of the redesign and why they were necessary.

The libraries underwent a complete work redesign in 2007, driven by a new strategic plan, reduced staffing levels, and anticipated further reductions. With the elimination of two associate dean positions, connections between units were reviewed, work redistributed, and units reorganized, reporting to the remaining assistant deans.

The position was previously focused on special collections and preservation. Preservation has been reassigned to technical services. This change provides leadership for humanities and social sciences bibliographers. The position also has oversight of librarians who have other primary responsibilities but spend a portion of their time on selection in humanities or social science subjects, for example reference librarians. The reorganization as a whole is intended to focus attention on services to users.

In 2008, the Exhibitions Department was moved organizationally. That unit now reports to the Promotions and Outreach Manager. In 2009, the Music/Dance Department was disbanded and employees were transferred to the appropriate functional units across the organization. The AUL for Special Collections kept oversight of only one librarian, the Curator of Music Special Collections. In 2010, this position assumed significant responsibility for development programs. These responsibilities are shared with the university librarian. No direct line reporting is associated with this responsibility since development officers fall organizationally under a foundation rather than under the university. One donor liaison is assigned to the library. This AUL works closely with that person but does not supervise him. Also in 2010, this AUL took on the role of Associate University Librarian. In that role he has full responsibility for the library whenever the university librarian is absent. In 2012, the Records Management Unit was pushed down in the organization. It now reports directly to the university archivist rather than to this AUL position. Ultimate responsibility for Records Management still flows up through this AUL, but direct reporting lines have changed.

This associate director position assumed responsibility for oversight of the friends of the library, program planning and outreach, and the exhibits program after another senior administrator resigned and that position was eliminated. Both budget reductions and strategic planning/realignment contributed to these decisions. The organizational units added to this portfolio are related to the library collections program, for which this position was already responsible.

The new position was created in that the assistant to the dean of libraries was asked to take on responsibility for several new departments: a data curation research librarian, the faculty engagement department, the user experience and assessment department, and the marketing and events manager (a new position related to the new 220,000 square foot learning commons building the library was asked by the provost to manage and operate). The responsibilities were such that the position was raised to the assistant dean level.

Two associate director positions (AD for Collection Services, AD for User Services) were merged into one position (Associate Director for Library Services). This was done primarily for budget reasons but it also was an effort to flatten the organization and improve communication among the department heads.

The focus of the associate university librarian position is on “Services to Libraries,” i.e., primarily our back room, internal operations. The two direct reports are: the Head of Discovery & Delivery Services which includes technical services, digitization, libraries’ catalogue systems, document delivery, off-campuses access services, usability/assessment, the libraries’ storage annex, and, yet to be fully implemented, the policy and technical aspects of circulation; and Head, Collections & External Relations, which incorporates collections management, archives & special collections, and external relations. The latter is somewhat at arm’s length since the position does not report to the libraries. The primary differences in the position are the inclusion of digitization and the catalogue systems, which were formerly part of a technical unit; the inclusion of document delivery, off-campus services and circulation, which were formerly part of a public services portfolio; and the inclusion of usability and archives & special collections. While the associate university librarian does not supervise these areas directly, the librarians reporting to the position do. Change was necessary because an associate director position was not being filled and some responsibilities needed to be redistributed. The stronger motivation for change, however, was the need to be future-oriented and to look more holistically at our systems and how we could organize them in a more integrated, seamless fashion to present to our users the growing number of options for access; and to group activities and initiatives in order to take advantage of synergies and opportunities for collaboration (e.g., collections management and archives & special collections).

Focus on the two most significant aspects of “public service” [the old term], hence the change in title and broadened scope of responsibilities: collections and services. Coincided with a change from traditional reference services to a liaison model.

In 2009, an electronic resources librarian was added to the bibliographic services department and handles much of the day-to-day collections oversight, assists with the collections budget activities, and, represents the library on consortia purchase negotiations and activities. These were previously handled by the AUL Collections. Thus the AUL has more time for other activities. In 2010, the position was assigned “research” to the portfolio of the Associate University Librarian Collections. The incumbent is essentially the Libraries’ associate dean for research and represents the university libraries on university research committees, at research meetings and events, etc. She/he in turn provides leadership to help advance the research activity of librarians and (because libraries also support research) to promote our services and collections. In 2010, the position was assigned learning accessibility services as it was believed that the activities of this unit are closely aligned with resource sharing. Both provide students copies of materials (title and/or format) not owned by the library. In 2011, the two acquisition units (monograph acquisitions department and the serials and electronic resources department) were merged into a single acquisitions department. All activities are essentially the same but are under a single professional (non-librarian) manager. Note: The bibliographic services department reports to the AUL Collections. The libraries digital initiatives unit resides within this unit therefore the AUL Collections has oversight of digitization and electronic publishing activities.

This position was redesigned as part of the strategic realignment process undertaken in 2010: convergence of libraries, museum, archives, special collections; completion of the Taylor Family Digital Library and the High Density Library (storage facility); increased emphasis on unique resources and integrated discovery. Metadata Development: cataloguing, metadata creation, and processing. Most significant change: creation of special materials unit (archival, fine arts, and visual materials); preparation of materials for the storage facility. Discovery Systems: operation, enhancement, and ongoing assessment of discovery and delivery systems. Includes support for: integrated library system, inventory retrieval system, remote access to electronic library resources, interlibrary loan and document delivery software, workroom booking system. Collections Development: collections budget management, electronic resources management, selection and ordering of new resources, gifts-in-kind, collection development analysis.

The libraries' information technology unit was relocated from technical services to public services to facilitate and highlight the increasing role for IT in supporting the libraries' online presence as a public service point. This change also promoted greater integration between IT & web services (which was already located in public services). Development operations were placed under public services to emphasize the role of this unit in leading outreach to all campus and community stakeholders.

The Director, Financial & Physical Resources is responsible for overseeing all of the library’s funding sources (including the acquisitions funding), as well as space for our seven physical locations. The redesign was necessary to bring a strategic and comprehensive focus for budgeting and financial management, as well as to put in place robust internal controls relating to the management of our financial resources. The position now oversees the administrative/clerical group in the dean’s office, given the work of this group intersects nicely with the work of the director.

We needed to consolidate and standardize the operations of separate special collections and archival units into one in order to realize improved efficiencies in processing, merge two separate reading rooms, adopt uniform standards based on nationally accepted best practices for finding aids, cataloging, etc. It was also thought that by combining the operations under one director, the incumbent would have a better sense of relative priorities for processing fundraising and digitization across the former separate special collections units.

The position’s responsibilities increased as a result of reorganization. We lost one senior position in 2010 to budget cuts and the library was reorganized to better reflect how we work in 2012. Fewer silos, more collaboration. It was also difficult to justify three senior administrative positions in a library of our size. The addition of access services and collection development dramatically broadened this portfolio. Access services was incorporated here because, like other departments in the portfolio, it is essentially an infrastructure service. Collection development was added to bring budgetary operations closer together. The “Associate Deans” are peers but one holds the title of “Senior Associate Dean.” This reflects the university’s desire to have a clear line of succession and that senior administrative position’s more significant role in campus activities (such as faculty affairs and budget).

The number of open records request has increased significantly in recent years and legally requires prompt action. In order to ensure the university is in compliance with this requirement, a new staff position was created through internal reassignment to work almost exclusively on open records issues. The university archivist now oversees this function rather than having direct responsibility for responding to requests.

The Associate Dean for Scholarly Communications and Research Services was created as a new position following the retirement in 2011 of the interim dean and former head of scholarly communications. When a new dean of libraries was hired he felt the increased emphasis on scholarly publishing, open access issues, combined with a desire to evolve the roles of our research librarians to be more involved in those issues and more embedded with scholars’ work, drove the need for a new position at the associate dean level. As part of the dean’s new organization, we pulled together research services, library systems, scholarly communications and digital initiatives, and research and grants together worked with this new associate dean.

Position was created to develop the potential of the catalog department to participate in emerging metadata and other digital opportunities. This division is charged with the development of the university's institutional repository, particularly the open access aspects; also participates in the institution's data management planning. The development of a unified university strategic plan and the new library strategic plan, the library's role in the campus open access initiative, and the 2009 NEASC accreditation study necessitated a major reorganization in senior library administration.

Please note that the individual who is the center director is ALSO the head of the digital collections department, in which role she reports to the AUL for LT. </table>

The creation of the Center for Scholarly Communication and Digital Curation was necessary not only to manage the growing pressure from our user community for support and services, but also to make manifest the leadership role the library is playing and must play in the context of the university as a whole. The center provides a structure for leadership and coordination of scholarly communication and digital creation activities that take place in many units of the library. The director of the center acts as administrative director of the center, coordinates the work of affiliates on specific projects and initiatives, and works closely with library liaisons, specialists, the digital collections department, and the scholarly communication committee to develop center programs and referral services. Articulates a vision for the development of all aspects of an effective scholarly communications program, including outreach programs and events, internal training and awareness programs for library staff, advising faculty on policy issues including copyright and funder mandates, and promoting relevant open access publishing initiatives. Plays a key leadership role in developing and sustaining services for retention and curation of important digital content from the campus community, including research data, publications, visual and media resources, technical reports, field notes, presentations, and gray literature and other born-digital ephemera of enduring value. Participates in digital publishing, e-science, and digital humanities initiatives and plays a leadership role in development of digital content curation services. Fosters effective relationships with key library and university partners including but not limited to faculty, academic units, information technologists, the university press, and the office of research.

Prior to the creation of the position of Planning & Assessment Officer, no one person was responsible for either planning or assessment. Responsibilities were either scattered across the administration and the library or non-existent. This position has the following responsibilities: Analyze and synthesize data to inform university libraries decision-making and to facilitate strategic planning. Facilitate implementation of strategic priorities. Evaluate progress toward strategic priorities. Track national trends. Review library policies. Make connections between libraries and student success. Gather data and user input on library resources and services. Conduct web usability studies. Develop and implement performance measures. Administer LibQUAL+® and collect and report annual statistics to ARL, ACRL, and NCES. Serve as portfolio manager for library projects. Coordinate in-service training.
21st Century Skills

6. As the responsibilities, scope, and/or focus of their positions change, what are the skills that senior library administrators most need to acquire to manage the 21st century research library? N=42

- Ability to assess and implement new and emerging technologies and resources that may be of value for university faculty and students. Ability to manage change and engage staff to move in new directions. Ability to identify new sources of funding/support, e.g., grants or private funds, and to pursue these resources successfully.

- Ability to identify trends in librarianship and higher education. Ability to let go of traditional approaches to collections and services while holding on to traditional values. Ability to see the big picture. Ability to tolerate ambiguity.

- Ability to manage a diverse (in its broadest sense) workforce; not only planning strategically but making sure the library supports the institution’s core mission. Ability to collaborate across silos, etc. Ability to secure resources. Ability to navigate in an increasingly complex technical environment.

- Ability to partner beyond the libraries with other campus leaders. Ability to be campus leaders. Flexible and very agile. Be able to articulate services and initiatives to non-librarians very effectively. Adept at space planning and planning “virtual” spaces. Be scholars and visible in the profession in their own right.

- Ability to think beyond the local institution and collaborate regionally and nationally. Knowledge of digital scholarship and new forms of scholarly communication. Flexibility, creativity, willingness to experiment.

- Awareness of national trends in education; scholarly communication, and information access. Vision. Focuses on the big picture; strategic planning skills. The ability to lead teams and to make decisions that shift directions. Skill in developing professionals and employing their talents. Ability and professional credibility to fully engage with campus, and talent for collaborating on and beyond campus, and a commitment to including all professionals within the library as equal partners in shaping the future.

- Better understanding of the technology and data management. Ability to work with fewer resources and to think more strategically. Ability to collaborate outside of the libraries.

- Big picture focus; strategic thinking. Ability to collect and interpret information from multiple sources for decision-making rather than relying on personal expertise. Ability to build internal and external partnerships.

- Breadth of understanding of library and higher education issues. Strategic visioning. Ability to engineer partnerships with academic programs and professorial faculty

- Change management skills. Excellent communication skills. Campus collaboration and engagement. Ability to be nimble and to create nimble departments.

- Change management, human relations, technology, leadership.

- Change management, perseverance, understanding of trends, and clear strategic agenda.
Comfort with ambiguity and a desire to position flexibility and innovation. A better connection to the wider university. Ability to work in collaborations, locally, regionally, nationally, etc.

Enterprise-wide focus: the ability to think about the organization as a whole (rather than a designated slice/portfolio). Strategic focus: the ability to focus actions and conversations on preferred futures / transformational change. Flexibility: the ability to turn on a dime, to adapt to new environments... Communication skills: more than just the oral and written skills. Includes the emotional intelligence to understand the implications of words and actions on others. Commitment to ongoing personal development.

Excellent interpersonal/communication skills. Ability to delegate. Flexibility. Excellent organization skills. Keeping abreast of the changing environment for 21st century libraries.

Flexibility, adaptability, vision, creativity, collaboration, resourcefulness.

How to align the library with campus goals and anticipate how we can contribute. Data collection and analysis skills. Leadership/how to maximize human and fiscal resources. Focus on customer.

In addition to the skills senior level administrators have always needed, people who are in these positions now need to be more flexible in their own assignments and able to lead constant change in the work and staffing patterns of the units reporting to them. In the context of need to focus more outside the organization, delegation skills and the ability to develop subordinate managers become increasingly important. The ability to be entrepreneurial and proactive about possible projects with external partners is critical (including relationships with consortial institutions, vendors, and other campus units).

Innovative thinking, ability to collaborate, advocacy for universal access to knowledge and information, flexibility.

Interpersonal and communication skills remain paramount in managing change. A detailed understanding of technology and the analytical ability to understand its application in the development of library resources. Ability to adapt to the changing environment of higher education.

Interpersonal, change management, facilitation, technological.

Leadership and communication skills, ability to manage large portions of the organization, ability to articulate a vision.

Leadership and management. Decisiveness. Vision, risk taking, expertise in some portion of their portfolio.

Leadership skills. Personnel management skills. Planning skills. Communications skills. Interpersonal skills.

Organizational skills. Budget management skills. Ability to work as a team player. Mentoring skills. Flexibility. Innovation skills. Vision.

Leadership, persuasion, multi-tasking, collaboration, knowledge base.

Need to be entrepreneurial. Visionary, strategic, and able to bring others on board. Articulate, outgoing, confident; ethical. Life-long learners. Good at building partnerships. Persuasive. Excellent fund raisers. Innovative. Risk takers without fear of failure. Open-minded. Good judgment, e.g., makes good personnel choices. Able to prioritize and delegate responsibly. It also helps to be nice to other people.
Outcomes assessment, data analysis, strategic budgeting, engagement at university level in development of strategic priorities, political savvy, broad and deep communication skills.

Project management and delegation skills, change leadership skills, budgeting and political savvy. Tolerance for entrepreneurial experimentation with occasional failures if one is not entrepreneurial oneself. Also, senior library administrators now need a certain amount of IT knowledge, in particular a mindset accepting mass or bulk acquisition (and ingest), processing and discovery systems that will scale well for future research libraries.

Real systems knowledge. New methods for collection management and storage.

Recruiting and managing a diverse staff to serve increasingly diverse student and faculty populations. Fundraising and marketing. Managing legacy print collections as well as the preservation of electronic collections. Operating the library as place and virtual use of library materials. Keeping the library relevant to university research and instruction.

Senior library leaders require strengths in: strategic planning; leadership; the ability to build a shared, compelling, and credible vision of the future. The ability to initiate, implement, and support innovation and institutional change, and enhance programs and services. Possess a results orientation. Possess strong communication and interpersonal skills; and be credible.

Significant management experience. Scholarly communications. Demonstrated success managing people, projects and budgets. Demonstrated ability to articulate priorities and values across a diverse constituency. Familiarity with emerging trends and technologies. Grant writing and/or grant management experience.

Technology. Knowledge of digital curation, scholarly communications proficiency, fundraising, political skills, leadership within the university.

The ability to empower staff to innovate, experiment, and collaborate. Strategic planning and allocating budgets strategically. Managing new younger staff with different attitudes toward work.

Transformational leadership skills. Strategic and entrepreneurial thinking. Ability to adapt to different roles and functions. Assessment and evaluation.

Understanding of digitization, epublishing, and digital stewardship activities. Understanding of open access and scholarly communications. Demonstrated expertise in not only collecting and analyzing qualitative and quantitative date, but in applying the findings to improve and direct services. Demonstrated expertise in strategic planning and strategic management (i.e., aligning budget allocations and redesigning workflows) to support new and growing areas while reducing activities in others. Understanding changes in higher education, not just changes in the library. Understanding changes in learning and teaching, not just information literacy. Understanding changes in research methodology, not just research collections. Being a visionary. Knowing labour contexts well so changes can be properly managed.

Understanding of evolving technology and the ability to use it creatively, and understand how our users are using it, whether directly or through others. Leadership skills, communication skills, entrepreneurial skills, an understanding of assessment, and a very high level of people skills.

9. If a vacancy occurred in a senior administrative position, do you anticipate that it would be redesigned before a search began? N=42

If yes, in what way would the position be redesigned? N=33

A reevaluation of departmental reporting lines to that position, recognizing shifting lines of departments reflecting the changing nature of the work.

Any position would be evaluated if not redesigned. Changes in service delivery (virtual reference, intensified research consultations, embedded librarians, librarians who are part of clinical hospital teams) are gaining importance within the scope of what a library does. Administrative positions may be directing more external/outreach functions rather than being dedicated to improving internal efficiencies.

As a matter of course, we review every vacancy we have to make sure that the way our work is organized reflects whatever current or envisioned reality we see. So, yes we would look carefully at one of these senior administrative positions to make sure that it promised the best return as described or change it so that it did.

Assess the greatest needs in terms of the priorities identified in our strategic plan and consider the position from that perspective.

Can’t comment at this time, not public information.

Certain positions would be redesigned to emphasize evolving information needs and modalities such as emerging technologies and impact on access to information and learning.

Depends on the position but would involve consultation with faculty and duties would be linked to needs anticipated over the next five years.

Every position that is filled in the libraries is reviewed to ensure that its responsibilities are aligned with our very new strategic plan.

Every time we have a vacancy, we determine our needs and make adjustments to positions as necessary. There is rarely an opportunity that passes where a position is not changed in some way.

Examine current needs of the organization and redesign position to include those needs where possible.

In the context of existing positions and of new or unmet needs.

It is very difficult to predict. Typically it involves balancing the workload among administrators.

It would be reviewed as a matter of process to determine if changes were appropriate. Changes could, but would not necessarily, include department/staff reporting and functional oversight.

“Redesigned” might be too formal a word. The responsibilities would certainly be closely examined and perhaps reconsidered and redistributed.
Position would be reconsidered in light of current needs; redesign may result.

Research and Digital Scholarship would be added to Collections. Teaching/Learning/Academic might be added to the Associate University Librarian for Information Services.

Responsibilities may be redesigned in accordance with our strategic objective.

Review for potential elimination or selective reassignment of duties.

Skills, workload, and ambitions of other senior administrators and capabilities of rising stars would probably be considered and taken into account before beginning a search.

The position would be reviewed and redesigned as necessary to align closely with the university’s new strategic vision, foundational commitments and academic priorities.

The redesign would depend upon the position vacated and the library needs at the time.

There is a chance that there would be some reorganization that could result in changes in any of the senior administrative positions.

To be more clearly aligned with campus goals and to focused on strategic thinking/planning.

To be responsive to budget reductions and new information-seeking, teaching, and learning modalities.

Uncertain but we always consider changes in a position when it comes open.

Unsure; depends on the position.

Vacancy in senior administrative position would lead to redesign. What would happen would depend on what vacancy it was.

Virtually any position would be carefully re-examined to ensure it had the greatest impact on the library and conduced to effective patterns of workflow and service. Depending which senior administrative position became vacant, there might be a reconsideration of which of the remaining administrators had what interests, strengths, and experience in order to rejigger some areas of responsibility. This may depend heavily on how strong the middle managers (department heads) are in the various functional areas.

We expect to examine our organizational structure carefully with two vacancies announced within the next eight months and anticipating retirement of two others within the next three years. We will likely shift responsibilities of all six senior administrators within that time frame. That being said, see “additional comments” below for further clarification on the timing of such changes.

We review all positions on vacancy. The changes would be determined by the actual position being vacated. We routinely shift portfolios of senior administrative team on the event of a vacancy.

We would look for organizational changes that needed to be made to bring units closer together in alignment. We have recently merged with our health sciences library, so there may be additional reorganization to bring like business units together to find additional efficiencies.

We would reconsider the need for the position, and whether organizational structure changes and reporting relationships would be desirable.

Well, all positions need to be redesigned - constantly.
Other comments N=9

It is likely, but not a certainty. Each vacancy is evaluated prior to reposting to determine if a different organizational structure makes more sense.

It really depends on the position, but most of the senior management positions are functioning at capacity at the moment.

Not at this stage. New leaders have just been on board for one year. But once we are further out from this reorganization the answer would likely be “yes.”

SIL just went through a redesign and probably would continue with the results as it relates to senior level positions.

The answer to this question is “maybe.” It would depend on the position that is vacated.

Traditional functions such as collection development and technical services are particularly prone to changing skill sets.

We have worked hard over recent years to achieve a high functioning administrative structure.

We will be posting one of these positions in the next few months. It won’t be redesigned but we will indicate some things about being flexible for the future.

We would review the position to ensure that we were able to most effectively utilize it in the future.

Associate Dean, Public Services.

At present the Assistant University Librarian for Organizational Development and Planning is vacant. An incoming dean of libraries (recruitment for dean expected to occur in 2012) would likely reconfigure that AUL position to include an emphasis on assessment and statistics.

Can’t comment publicly.

Collection development, facilities.

Collections and technical services.

Depends on the opening that might occur.

Development / fundraising is an area of need but for which we need additional campus support.

Four of our six top administrators will be retiring soon; massive reorganization is anticipated.
Higher level strategic planning, assessment, and financial analysis.

New director of libraries as I retire.

Not known at this time, because it would depend on which positions became vacant.

Not sure—it is too early to know.

Organizational Development.

Public services, special collections, liaison/outreach, scholarly communication, possibly collection development. MANY changes are coming within one to three years. See the "additional comments" below.

Strategic planning, assessment, staff engagement.

User services.

We are actively planning for such an opportunity. The primary areas of responsibility would be planning, assessment, and statistics. The creation of such a position would require the redistribution of some other responsibilities among other senior or middle management level staff.

We are planning major reorganization.

Will be determined by the new library director coming in July.

Any type of library background,

Director: external. Associate University Librarian: practice is hiring internally.

I believe that we may fill a number of high-level positions from multiple venues.

It depends on the position.

This depends very much on the type of position.

This is difficult to answer, as it would depend on the type of position we were advertising for. If our Director, Financial & Physical Resources position became vacant we would recruit someone with a finance/accounting background, not librarianship.
An Executive Officer needs to have at least a Certified Management Accountant qualification.

I am stepping down effective September 1, 2012. One of the current AULs is stepping down effective January 1, 2013. Two more of the AULs will retire by September 1, 2015, at the latest. Because of this last fact, we have determined to advertise the current AUL position as it exists. Doing so will provide a measure of stability until the new university librarian is on board and has a hand in selecting this first AUL replacement; including indicating to the finalists that the focus and scope of the position could change in the future. The subsequent two retirements will provide an excellent opportunity to rethink the library’s structure and administrative organization.

I think the level just below is the one more in flux at the moment, with new skills needed by managers and other professionals to deal with new roles such as data curation, creating new digital tools, social media, etc.

It is unlikely we would change in the next 1–3 years because with the transition to a new dean in 2011/2012 we have realigned our senior administration and our organization in recent months. Until new influences come into play, such as our retirements or the impact of trends on our strategies and use of resources, we would not expect changes to occur that would disrupt the new continuity in our organization.

Ongoing emphasis on developing the research library of the 21st century will have an impact on these positions.

The dean would like to also create a position focused on high-level leadership of space planning (including collections shifts, strategic changes in service, and high-level facilities management). Whether or not that position reports directly to her, the realization of that vision will likely be created by re-purposing a vacancy at a middle management or even at a non-managerial level.

The redesign of the Libraries is now pretty much complete.

There will be fewer senior administrative positions (at the associate director/dean level) as budgets become tighter and more focus on “user facing” librarians and other professionals.

University pressure to continue to eliminate positions and downsize, even to eliminate senior administrative positions.

We have just completed a strategic planning process and are in the process of determining the impact on our organizational structure and specific positions. Until this process is completed, it is difficult to respond in any detail about how positions might change. Some of the principles that will guide any future reorganization are greater alignment of positions with the strategic plan, operational efficiency, better communication throughout the organization; and reducing the number of direct reports to the dean.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

12. Please enter any additional information that may assist the authors’ understanding of senior administrative positions at your library. N=15

A key issue is managing the time of the dean; it is difficult if there are too many direct reports, since those can include not only the AULs, but also categories like development officer, public relations, and even occasionally office administrative staff (though we have successfully moved that away from the dean's direct oversight). At the same time the dean does not like too many intervening layers through the organization since it creates genuine communication problems and a sense of lack of connectedness. Currently, she is leaning towards more department-level units, reporting to the same number of AULs (4), even though we probably could justify—as we planned for a while and then retracted—going to 5. It is critical for the AULs to be able to work together as a team and to understand, at a good level of detail, the workings of all of the divisions and not just their own. Too often one needs to temporarily reassign because of unexpected vacancies or new projects, and if top-level managers are too siloed, we are very hampered.

Although there have been no major changes since 2007, adjustments have been ongoing. Our organizational chart has been consistently fluid and representative of our changing environment and user needs.

It's been necessary for some time to have a senior administrator other than the library director to oversee the day-to-day workings of the library.

Our libraries have been in a major state of transition during the period surveyed. We have had three deans during this time, one of whom was an interim. In December 2007, we had a major reorganization that impacted senior administration and department heads as well as most of our staff. Between 2008 and 2011, we have seen our dean resign to take another position and retirement of two associate deans. We had an interim dean in 2010/2011 who retired following the appointment of the new dean. Obviously the transition at the top of our organization has greatly influenced reporting relationships and we have had four different organizational structures since 2007. So as it influences the completion of this survey, we may not be a typical example.

Our libraries reorganized away from the traditional branch library model in the late 1990s and brought all research and instruction librarians under one umbrella AUL. Therefore, significant reorganization had already been achieved by 2007.

The consultants we used for our libraries' review recommended a few options for reorganization, including one with a 2nd AUL focusing on public services. However, for budgetary reasons we have not created the position, and therefore proceeded with a different option for reorganization.

The current configuration of senior administrative positions reporting directly to the vice provost is made up of three kinds of appointments: 1. Associate Vice Provosts (research support, collections, learning) and Directors (centre for scholarly communication, administration) are held by academic staff with administrative appointments, renewable following a review every three years; 2. Program Director and Technology Officer, Taylor Family Digital Library are held by academic staff, seconded to these positions throughout the planning and implementation phases of the TFDL; 3. Director, Communications and Development is held by a member of the management and professional staff. Promotion and tenure requirements for senior administrative positions: Please note: 1. senior administrative positions do not have separate promotion and tenure requirements; 2. our current faculty guidelines have not yet been approved by the university provost; the edition provided as part of the accompanying documentation does not reflect changes in organizational name and position titles

The dean of libraries is also VP for IT, so academic computing is now a unit within the libraries.

The libraries' senior administrative team works collaboratively across all programmatic areas to identify opportunities and challenges and to develop strategic solutions and directions. Special attention is devoted to recruiting and retaining a highly talented staff.

The members of the executive group (AUL IT, AUL Collections and User Services, Director of Administrative Services, Director of Development, and Director of Instructional Technology and Academic Services) meet twice weekly with the university librarian as a group to discuss issues of strategic and operational importance. The group reviews and contributes to the development of the annual budget. The appointments are not subject to the Librarian Continuing Appointment and Promotion standards used for librarians in non-senior administration positions in the libraries.
The senior administrators here and at other places have the most demanding and challenging positions in research libraries; more so than deans and directors.

The three senior AUL positions are designed to mirror the organization of the office of the provost, providing efficiency in communication and coordination in planning.

2007 Position Descriptions
Director, Public Services

The Perkins Library System is in the process of implementing its strategic plan for 2000-2005 to support Duke's institutional imperatives, with particular emphasis in the following areas: support for the new undergraduate curriculum; expansion of instructional programs to develop and improve research skills and information literacy; development of innovative, customized reference services for users regardless of location; and establishment of an integrated document delivery service. We are seeking an innovative and energetic individual to provide creative leadership for these new initiatives. The successful candidate will also be an analytical thinker and an agent for change, with the ability to articulate and communicate a vision for outstanding public services and to enlist the support of faculty, students and library staff for implementing new and innovative services. Staffing in Public Services is comprised of 73 FTE; position reports to the University Librarian, who is also Vice Provost for Library Affairs.

Responsibilities

- Leads and administers public services activities and units in Perkins Library (Access Services, Document Delivery Services, Public Documents and Maps Department, Reference Department) and six branch libraries (Biological and Environmental Sciences; Chemistry; Lilly; Music; Vesic Library for Engineering, Math and Physics; and the Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library).
- Provides vision and leadership in the following areas:
  - identifying and assessing user needs and developing output measures to evaluate the quality and success of services in meeting those needs;
  - planning and developing a user education program to ensure that students and faculty achieve information literacy and understand the complementary nature of print and electronic resources;
  - working collaboratively with the Center for Instructional Technology to incorporate creative use of technology into the curriculum and the support of research by both students and faculty;
  - working closely with the Director, Collections Services in coordinating the public service activities of subject and area specialists, and with the Director of Communications to promote library programs and services;
  - fostering and promoting the growth and development of librarians and staff to meet the challenges of serving an increasingly diverse user population.
- Establishes collaborative working relationships with collections services, technical services, information technology services, and special collections.
- Coordinates public services activities, programs and initiatives with the libraries of Duke's professional schools (Business, Divinity, Law, and the Medical Center).
- Participates in overall planning and policy development and fundraising as a member of the library's Executive Group.

Qualifications

Master's degree from an ALA-accredited program or equivalent education and experience; minimum of five years of substantial and progressively more responsible experience in public services in a research library, including management of personnel and budget; experience in user education and in initiating new programs and services; experience in addressing issues and trends in document delivery and information and instructional technology; strong leadership and excellent interpersonal, oral and written communication skills; ability to establish effective working relationships in a collaborative environment; commitment to the importance of diversity in the academic environment; a record of significant professional activity.
Position Summary

The Director of the Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library (RBMSCL) assists the University Librarian in leading and managing the Perkins Library system and provides leadership and direction for RBMSCL and its staff. The director reports to the University Library and Vice Provost for Library Affairs and serves on the Executive Group of the Perkins Library system.

Responsibilities

SYSTEM-WIDE RESPONSIBILITIES:

• Working with the University Librarian and the Executive Group, provides leadership for shaping and achieving the libraries’ mission and goals.

• Contributes to leadership of the Perkins Library Renovation and Expansion Project, serving on the Project Advisory Committee and supervising the work of the Project Manager.

• Develops and strengthens relationships between the libraries and university administrators, faculty, students, donors, and supporters. Participates in meetings of the Library Council and the Library Advisory Board.

• Participates in budget planning for the libraries.

• With other members of the Executive Group and with department heads, participates in the Perkins Library system Administrative Council.

RBMSCL RESPONSIBILITIES:

• Promotes the growth and development of RBMSCL in line with the mission and goals of the university and the Perkins Library system.

• Working with library staff and the user community, establishes goals and priorities for RBMSCL.

• Oversees the formulation and implementation of library policies and procedures.

• Plans for staff, equipment, and space needs and allocates resources to meet established goals and priorities.
DUKE UNIVERSITY
Director, Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library

- Oversees and coordinates the work of the three departments composing RBMSCL (Collection Development, Technical Services, and Research Services). Supervises the department heads, each of whom reports to the Director of RBMSCL.

- Oversees and coordinates the work of the specialized Centers within RBMSCL (Hartman Center for Sales, Advertising & Marketing History; Franklin Collection of African and African American Documentation; Bingham Center for Women’s History and Culture; Documentary Photography Archive; Hubbell Center for American Literary Historiography).

- In conjunction with the University Librarian and the university libraries’ Director of Development, seeks outside support for RBMSCL’s collections and operations.

- Works with the staff of RBMSCL’s Collection Development Department, university faculty in various disciplines, and bibliographers and subject librarians elsewhere in the university libraries to formulate collection development policies and to develop the holdings of RBMSCL. Identifies potential donors; solicits and acquires collections.

- Serves as a liaison with and a resource to the university’s professional school libraries with respect to special collections.

- Represents the Perkins Library system in special collections activities of the Triangle Research Libraries Network.

- Represents RBMSCL in the academic community, with the general public, and in the library, archival, and historical professions.

Supervisory Responsibilities
- Supervises heads of Collection Development, Technical Services, and Research Services (all components of RBMSCL)

Qualifications
It is the expectation that all Duke University Libraries staff members will demonstrate exceptional workplace behaviors in the execution of their specific position responsibilities. These behaviors are customer focus, collaboration, creative problem solving, continuous learning and a commitment to diversity. In addition, managers and supervisors are expected to help develop a common vision by providing clear direction and priorities, clarifying roles and responsibilities, and promoting mutual understanding through effective communication. They are also expected to take the time to effectively plan and evaluate performance, provide feedback, recognition and coaching, and develop employees to achieve their personal and organizational goals.

EDUCATION:

- Required: BA/BS

- Preferred: Advanced degree in a relevant field
EXPERIENCE:

Required: Working knowledge of standard archival procedures; effective analytical and writing skills; basic computer skills including MS Office; flexibility and capacity to thrive in a rapidly changing environment; excellent interpersonal skills; ability to work independently and as a member of a team.

Preferred: Prior experience working in an academic research library.

Working Conditions

- Must be able to lift 30 pounds and unpack, shelve and shift large quantities of library materials
- Must be able to work in an environment in which exposure to materials containing dust and mold is possible
- Frequent bending, crouching, stooping
- Normal office environment
- Occasional weekend shifts required
- Occasional travel required

These statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work being performed by the employee in this position. They are not intended to be construed as an exhaustive list of all responsibilities, duties, and skills required of a person in this position.

Scholarly Communication Officer (Term Appointment)

The Scholarly Communication Officer will coordinate scholarly communication activities for Duke University by providing leadership and educating the university community about intellectual property issues and their impact on the nature and conduct of scholarly inquiry and instruction. This position reports to the Director of Academic Technology and Instructional Services. It is a three-year term appointment with the possibility of renewal.

Responsibilities

- Directs copyright activities for the university’s libraries and serves as copyright advisor to the university community; serves as the libraries’ primary resource on fair use and other copyright issues; assists with obtaining copyright permissions.
- Sustains development of the Libraries’ scholarly communication Web site; organizes educational forums on scholarly communication topics as they relate to academia and to research libraries.
- Represents the interests of Duke University Libraries and the university community in the development of university policy on copyright, the public domain, user privacy, and other scholarly communication issues.
- Monitors national scholarly communication policy issues, informs and educates the Duke community of their significance and participates in campus efforts to ensure that scholars, students and libraries in the digital environment retain the full benefits of the current and evolving intellectual property regime.
- Works in close consultation and cooperation with university’s Office of General Counsel, the Office of Information Technology, academic departments, and senior university administrators on issues and programs related to scholarly communication.
- As appropriate, coordinates work with the Triangle Research Libraries Network on issues and programs related to scholarly communications.
- Performs other related duties incidental to the work described herein.

Qualifications

It is the expectation that all Perkins Library staff members will demonstrate exceptional workplace behaviors in the execution of their specific position responsibilities. These behaviors are customer focus, collaboration, creative problem solving, continuous learning and a commitment to diversity. In addition, managers and supervisors are expected to help develop a common vision by providing clear direction and priorities, clarifying roles and responsibilities, and promoting mutual understanding through effective communication. They are also expected to take the time to effectively plan and evaluate performance, provide feedback, recognition and coaching, and develop employees to achieve their personal and organizational goals.

EDUCATION:
Required: ALA-accredited MLS or J.D or equivalent combination of relevant academic preparation and experience.
Preferred: ALA-accredited MLS and J.D.

EXPERIENCE:
Required: Five years of relevant experience with emphasis on scholarly communication matters in libraries, academia, scientific or scholarly publishing, or other settings; recent demonstrated experience in one or more of the following areas: academic or research library collections, services, and systems, academic information technology, or scientific or scholarly publishing; demonstrated expertise in legal and regulatory issues associated with intellectual property and copyright, particularly as they involve the creation, dissemination, and use of digital information resources; demonstrated ability to represent the interests of a university, based on a demonstrated understanding of the technical, legal, and information policy issues of scholarly communication; excellent oral and written communication skills; excellent interpersonal skills and ability to work well with and to lead faculty, students, and academic administrators; ability to think creatively in developing products and services, such as publications, workshops, conferences, and tools that meet members’ needs.

Preferred: At least five years of increasingly responsible administrative experience in collection management and/or technical services or other relevant area in a research library environment; ability to communicate a strong vision of how discipline-based scholarship is changing in response to new technologies and what role libraries can play in meeting the evolving needs of scholars.
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
CAMPUS: Amherst
JOB DESCRIPTION

OFFICIAL TITLE: This is the official title of the position.

Librarian III

FUNCTIONAL TITLE: This is the in-house title by which the position may be known. A functional title is usually a more descriptive title than the official title and may be required to identify very specific kinds of work. This title may be used in signing all correspondence.

Coordinator, Library Systems and Web Management

GENERAL STATEMENT OF DUTIES: Please provide a brief overview of the general functions of this position. Specific details of duties should be reserved for the Examples of Duties section.

Provide creative leadership and direction for the information systems and web technology used in the University Library.

SUPERVISION RECEIVED: Please indicate the title, but not the name, of the administrative employee or employees responsible for supervision or direction of work; describe the divergent extents of authority of each, indicating the degree, priorities, and relationships of the supervision or direction, which could range from close supervision to supervision with considerable freedom.

Report to the Director of Libraries who reviews performance for effectiveness and conformance with established policies, but have substantial independent responsibility without immediate supervision.

SUPERVISION EXERCISED: Using descriptive non-numerical terms, identify the scope of supervision, training or direction exercised (i.e., whether the supervision is over a few employees, a small number of employees, a large number of employees, etc.); also, describe the degree of supervision, indicating whether close supervision or general direction is involved, and categorize the physical conditions under which the supervision is given, such as in a laboratory or an office. Supervision of student employees should not be included in this section, but may be listed under Examples of Duties, if applicable.

Have responsibility for coordinating library systems and web management in the University Library, including supervision of personnel and management of services involved in this activity.

EXAMPLES OF DUTIES: Please list and briefly describe several of the duties and responsibilities typically performed and assumed in this position. This list should not be restrictive but should be descriptive in such a manner as to provide concrete information representing examples of the actual work as well as the level of responsibility for the work being performed.

1. Directly manage library automation activities in the broad categories of operations, network interfaces, and user support. Formulate, disseminate, implement and revise related policies and procedures as required. Manage and direct, maintaining user-based focus, the staff working in operational support of systems implementation and workstation support.

2. Assume library-wide leadership for creating and advancing an innovative user centered Web presence to more fully develop the Library's digital presence in support of teaching, learning and research and to facilitate access to digital resources and services.

3. Coordinate all aspects of the UMass Amherst Library Web Site including: calling regular meetings of the Publishing Group, collecting management information about site usage and distributing to interested parties; coordinating Web shifts (major changes to Website); and addressing administrative issues.

4. As member of the Digital Initiative Task Force, work cooperatively and collaboratively to move forward choices about technology use based on assessment of what is strategic for the library and its users.

5. Serve as a member of the Library's Senior Management Group.

Context

The job profile for deans at the University of Saskatchewan define the role of Dean as follows: "As the chief academic and operating leader of the College, the Dean is accountable for the creation and implementation of the College’s and University’s integrated plans and for ensuring the academic quality and integrity of the College. Major responsibilities include leading the College planning process; ensuring that strategic and operational plans are in place; advocating and promoting best practices in research, teaching, outreach and engagement, and deployment of human and physical resources; monitoring and improving performance to ensure outcomes as defined in the integrated plans; promoting positive relations internally and externally; and identifying and pursuing opportunities to support and enhance the long-term growth and success of the College and University. Where applicable, the Dean ensures that the accreditation of academic programs by external organizations is maintained."

Primary Purpose

The Associate Dean assists the Dean and leads a discrete portfolio of responsibilities, currently designated as services to clients ( Clients Services). The Associate Dean leads the system-wide provision of high-quality library services to its clients, from the seven branch libraries. The Associate Dean is a member of the Library’s executive leadership team, reporting to the Dean of the University Library.

Nature of the Work

The Associate Dean is responsible for providing leadership to faculty and staff, especially in relation to the development and delivery of services to clients (faculty, staff and students of the University of Saskatchewan). This role has system-wide responsibilities across all seven branch library locations.

The Associate Dean is supported by a team of Branch Heads ( Librarians assigned administrative responsibilities for the day-to-day operations of services delivered through branch libraries). Working in close collaboration with branch heads, the Associate Dean ensures the soundness of library educational programs, the quality of library services to clients, and the effective management of human and physical resources assigned to the client services portfolio.

The Associate Dean functions in a highly demanding environment that requires constant scanning for issues and challenges against multiple priorities and demands on limited resources. The work is of high volume and is complex. Decisions ranging from the mundane to critical are required on a routine basis. The Associate Dean, in consultation with the Dean, is responsible for determining the nature and extent of academic activities in which s/he engages during his/her term.
Education and Experience

A relevant advanced degree, a strong professional practice record, and progressive experience in an academic (or related) environment with recent experience at a leadership level are required. Demonstrated success in contributing to the developing a vision and leading people to achieve exemplary performance and outcomes is desirable.

Accountabilities (Expected Outcomes)

The Associate Dean is accountable for the following outcomes:

Strategic Planning

- Participates in setting direction for the University Library, especially in the context of services to clients
- Develops multi-year operational plans for the client services portfolio aligned with the directions of the Library and the University
- Ensures that branch library operational plans are efficient, integrated across the portfolio, and aligned with the directions set by the University Library
- Ensures plans are aligned with emerging trends and needs of key stakeholders

Teaching and Research

- Communicates academic and research outcomes and priorities to help ensure alignment of library services to clients
- Promotes the research and teaching agenda of Library programs through a variety of strategies and contacts
- Adds to the reputation and prestige of the Library and the University through individual scholarly work

Operational Effectiveness

- Ensures effective implementation of change and new products and services identified through operational planning
- Develops and implements policies, procedures and key success measures for the Library’s client services
People and Environment

- Ensures positive, diverse, and inclusive work and learning environments
- Prepares faculty and staff for future key leadership roles
- Ensures mentoring, career development and training of staff who report to the position
- Builds a robust and balanced leadership team
- Aggressively recruits and retains outstanding faculty and staff
- Promotes and supports outreach and engagement activities of faculty and, where applicable, staff
- Holds people accountable for high standards of performance

Financial and Resource Management

- Develops creative solutions to resource challenges
- Re-allocates resources to align with and support the outcomes of the client services portfolio and Library’s Plans
- Ensures long-term growth and sustainability of the Library’s physical, financial, and human resources

Risk Management

- Incorporates the identification, assessment, and management of risks into the planning processes for the branch libraries and the services to libraries portfolio
- Ensures accountability and transparency of the Library’s activities, information, and reports
- Communicates and ensures compliance with University policies, federal and provincial laws and regulations and collective agreements
- Implements and maintains an effective system of checks and balances with respect to financial management and assets, which includes general safeguarding and stewardship of all resources in the Library’s financial, physical, and human resources
Competencies

Competencies are the attributes and behaviours, manner or style, how skills and knowledge are applied to the job. Each person brings different combinations of competencies to their position. The competencies below are the desired attributes. Feedback with respect to the competencies provides a focus for leadership development to ensure an overall balance, so that no particular set of competencies is over or under-demonstrated.

- Seeks feedback from others and responds by developing capabilities or modifying behavior
- Keeps promises and commitments even when unpopular or difficult
- Demonstrates emotional maturity and resiliency in difficult circumstances
- Demonstrates integrity in words and deeds
- Accepts responsibility
Decisiveness: the demonstrated ability to assess a difficult situation and make a good decision in a timely manner based upon a mixture of analysis, consultation, experience, and judgment.

- Assesses the importance, urgency, and risk associated with each situation
- Makes decisions that are in the best interests of the Library and the University
- Demonstrates the willingness to make decisions which others have, by action or word, expressed a reluctance to make
- Anticipates how decisions affect other people, teams, or units

Change: the demonstrated ability to initiate, implement, and support innovation and institutional change and help others to successfully manage change and the willingness to advocate new ideas, especially when risk is involved.

- Demonstrates an optimistic attitude towards change; embracing change and fostering new approaches
- Engages others in the change process

Communication: the demonstrated ability to convey information and ideas to individuals in a manner that engages the audience and helps them understand, retain, and respond to the message.

- Provides useful and valuable information to others
- Communicates clearly and ensures understanding
- Demonstrates an understanding of the impact of communications on others

Problem Solving: the demonstrated ability to resolve conflict and problems while creating a positive work environment.

- Listens actively to promote shared understanding
- Focuses on facts and data rather than personalities
- Identifies shared interests to develop positive outcomes
- Demonstrates courage rather than avoidance to resolve conflict and problems
Collaboration | Team Building: the demonstrated ability to develop effective teams and/or develop the rapport necessary to maintain and strengthen partnerships inside or outside the University.

- Builds opportunities and partnerships
- Creates an environment where diverse views and perspectives are accepted
- Maximizes opportunities to get things done through teams
- Clearly defines accountabilities for team and team members

University Understanding: demonstrating effectiveness within the University environment by applying knowledge of the University, its people, support systems, policies, and structure as a means of achieving results and/or affecting change.

- Effectively uses existing structures, policies, and protocols to make progress on initiatives
- Balances the interests of the University with those of the Library

Job Information Questionnaire for Staff

Name: ________________________________
Job Title: Deputy University Librarian and Associate Dean of Libraries
Department/School/College: Office of the University Librarian and Dean of Libraries
Date: October 19, 2005

The purpose of this questionnaire is to collect information about the duties and responsibilities of your job. We will use this information in several ways such as writing job descriptions, comparing job responsibilities, complying with certain laws, and determining job categories.

When responding to the questionnaire, please keep in mind the following guidelines:

✓ Respond based on actual job duties and responsibilities. Please describe the job as it exists now. In other words, tell us what you are actually doing in your job (this may or may not differ from what your current job description states) Note: this is not an evaluation of your personal background or performance.

✓ Be objective and accurate. Try not to understate or inflate information about your job. Base your responses on the typical duties and responsibilities of your job under normal conditions, not on unusual circumstances or temporary assignments.

✓ Be inclusive. Remember to include the skills you feel are required to perform the responsibilities of your job. Please describe the level and nature of personal interaction you demonstrate in your job. Also, if you are a supervisor, be sure to describe your supervisory/managerial responsibilities.

✓ Review the Job Classification Model and Sample Completed Job Information Questionnaires. It may be helpful to read through the job categories and the sample completed job information questionnaires before completing the job information questionnaire to help you think about the nature, scope and responsibilities of your role at SU.

✓ Job Classification Category. Read through the descriptions of the job categories and indicate where you think your position fits.

If you have any questions, please see your supervisor or contact Roger Casanova (x4565) or Carol Sunderwirth (x4632) in Wage & Salary Administration.

Thank you for your time and input.

2. Works with the regional campus librarians at WSU Vancouver, WSU Tri-Cities, WSU Spokane, the Intercollegiate College of Nursing, and the WSU Energy Library, to coordinate programs with Pullman units.
3. Provides leadership for PSO staff, faculty, and temporary employees.
4. Serves on Library Council (ex officio).
5. Coordinates the efforts of the working groups reporting to this position.
6. Collaborates with library development personnel in fundraising efforts.
7. Fosters atmosphere of open communication, trust, and respect.

C. Personnel
1. Administers University and Libraries policies and procedures related to Public Services and Outreach faculty, staff, and temporary employees.
2. Performs annual reviews for PSO personnel who report directly to this position.
3. Fosters professional development and growth of PSO faculty and staff.
D. Professional, Research, and Scholarly Activities
   1. Maintains and shares knowledge of trends and innovations in public services and outreach.
   2. Actively participates in professional organizations, research, and scholarly activities.
   3. Participates in university and community service activities.

Faculty are expected to communicate well; maintain pleasant, courteous and cooperative relationships; display a professional manner in demeanor and language; and show courteous and effective behavior in meetings.

Qualifications:

REQUIRED:
ALA accredited degree in Library/Information Science; at least 4 years of management experience in a medium to large academic or research library; professional reference and library instruction experience; experience applying new information technologies in public service settings; budget management experience. The successful candidate will demonstrate the following: experience in leadership, mentoring, and motivation; comprehensive knowledge of a large library's varied public service functions; a history of positive interaction with faculty, staff, students, and administrators; excellent interpersonal and collaborative oral and written communication skills; understanding of current issues facing research libraries, including the rapid changes in modes of scholarly communication and strategies for outreach to a wide range of constituents; a progressive record of publication and professional participation that meets the criteria for tenure at WSU.

PREFERRED:
Experience with the following: personnel supervision, interaction with diverse units, facilitation of group decision-making and planning, assessment of services and user needs, fundraising and resource development; demonstrated support for employee development; additional advanced degree.

POSITION: Head, Digital Collections and Scholarly Communications Services

REPORTS TO: Dean of Libraries and Charles Deering McCormick University Librarian
Associate University Librarian for Special Libraries

SUPERVISES: Assistant Head, Digital Collections and Services
Visual Resources Librarian
Outreach and Training Specialist

SUMMARY: Under the general direction of the AUL for Special Libraries, the Head of Digital Collections and Scholarly Communications Services has primary responsibility for the conceptual development and execution of digital library projects and digitization and repository services at Northwestern University Library; and under the general direction of the Dean of Libraries/University Librarian, he/she provides leadership, direction and coordination of the activities and services of scholarly communications programs at Northwestern University Library. The two dimensions of the position are expected to overlap in programmatic, physical and technological ways and thus the two supervisors are expected to be in close communication with the incumbent and each other.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Acts as administrative director of the Center for Scholarly Communication (or the equivalent entity in the Library), coordinates the work of affiliates on specific projects and initiatives, and works closely with Library liaisons, specialists, Digital Collections and Services, and the Scholarly Communications Committee to develop Center programs and referral services. Articulates a vision for the development of all aspects of an effective Scholarly Communications program, including outreach programs and events, internal training and awareness programs for library staff, advising faculty on policy issues including copyright and funder mandates, and promoting relevant open access publishing initiatives. Plays a key leadership role in developing and sustaining services for retention and curation of important digital content from the Northwestern community, including research data, publications, visual and media resources, technical reports, field notes, presentations, and gray literature and other born-digital ephemera of enduring value. Participates in digital publishing, e-science, and digital humanities initiatives and plays a leadership role in development of digital content curation services. Fosters effective relationships with key Library and University partners including but not limited to faculty, academic units, information technologists, the University Press and the Office of Research.

As head of the Digital Collections and Services department, is responsible for management of all aspects of the department, including planning, prioritizing and implementing policy and direction, budget management, and communication with appropriate University faculty, Library staff, vendors, and relevant colleagues in partner research libraries. Is responsible for the conceptual development and execution of special digital library and faculty projects, digitization services for library departments and faculty, the Digital Image Library, and development and support of repository services and affiliated faculty digital projects. Supervises the staff of the Digital Collections Department, including an assistant department head, and directly or indirectly supervises the staff engaged in project management, production, consulting, training and media delivery services to library staff and university faculty; scanning of printed materials using specialized scanners; conversion of analog slide, image, film and other media items to digital formats; and enhancing the content and usability of the Digital Image Library and the digital library repository.
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Head, Digital Collections and Scholarly Communications Services

Actively seeks opportunities to leverage the strengths of library staff in extending to the campus digital library services for digital content creation and management, metadata analysis and application, and content licensing and data curation. Fosters and promotes effective communication with all members of the University community concerning the Library’s digital initiatives and services. Works closely with NUIT and the Library’s Technology Division to shape the content and design of Northwestern’s digital repository and other systems needed to support digital content and collections. Works closely with other departments in the Library and university faculty to assure successful delivery of services and digital collections. Participates in or leads library or university committees. Participates in and leads development of grant and other funding requests. Manages the content, service, and collection policy aspects of Northwestern’s digital repository, including the development of criteria for inclusion and relevant copyright and intellectual property safeguards.

Represents Northwestern University Library in forums at the regional, national, and international level—especially those that focus on the development of policy, services and initiatives in areas relating to the above responsibilities. In particular, leads NUL participation in relevant programs of the CIC and the ARL.

QUALIFICATIONS: A Masters degree from an ALA accredited program in library or information science or the equivalent combination of education and relevant library experience required. At least ten years progressively responsible experience in an academic library setting required. Advanced leadership and management skills with demonstrated ability to build partnerships and bring innovative and complex programs and projects to completion. Significant expertise and knowledge of a wide range of standards and practices in intellectual property and copyright law, metadata, digital content and media, and digital library development. Ability to maintain effective working relationships with all levels of the University community and with outside vendors and partners. Excellent communication and interpersonal skills required. Proven ability to promote cooperative efforts among library and other campus units and to foster productive collaborations. Demonstrated flexibility and initiative in a changing environment required. Experience working directly with faculty and students required. Evidence of continuing participation in professional and scholarly activities required. ### Position:

Associate Director for Collections, Technical Services, and Scholarly Communications

Description:

The Associate Director for Collections, Technical Services, and Scholarly Communications provides leadership, vision, and strategic direction for collection development and management, acquisitions and cataloging, and collection access services of the Ohio State University Libraries. This position also has responsibility for scholarly communications initiatives, including the Knowledge Bank digital repository, e-publishing, and policy oversight for collections to be digitized. Reporting to the Director of University Libraries, the Associate Director will manage the evolution of the Libraries’ information resources to match the needs and behaviors of users and enhance and promote access to the Libraries’ print and digital collections by Ohio State faculty, students, and staff and by scholars and other researchers worldwide.

Responsibilities:

- Oversees and coordinates the work of the units comprising the division of approximately 15 faculty and 89 staff who have responsibility for collections policy, acquisitions, cataloging/metadata services, collection management/storage operations, preservation, access services, including circulation, e-reserves, document delivery and interlibrary services, and scholarly communications initiatives.

- Manages a materials budget of approximately $10 million, with a focus on accelerating the transition to electronic formats as content becomes available.

- Oversees and leads the creation, discovery, display, and preservation of digital content, as part of a robust publishing and archiving platform for the research output of the university, working closely with the Assistant Director for Information Technology.

- Works with unit leaders in the division to develop strategic directions and assess service quality.

- Plays a leadership role in library-wide planning, policy making, development and evaluation of services.

- Represents Ohio State University in OhiolINK and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC) collection development/management activities and participates in other consortial activities.

- Provides leadership and training to academic liaison librarians, working closely with the Associate Director for Research and Education and the Associate Director for Special Collections and Area Studies.

- Fosters a collaborative work environment, encouraging personnel to work across departments within the University Libraries to support the goals and initiatives of the Libraries’ strategic plan.

Qualifications:

Required:

- Masters degree in Library/Information Science from an ALA-accredited program (or equivalent degree).
- Minimum of five years of progressively responsible professional experience in a large academic or research library or comparable experience elsewhere.
Demonstrated administrative excellence, including leadership, effective supervisory and budgetary skills.
- Knowledge and understanding of significant trends and issues in collection management, scholarly communication, and evolving modes of librarianship.
- Strong analytical and decision making skills.
- Collaborative management style that empowers others to excel.

Preferred:

- Record of research, publication, and scholarly achievement sufficient to warrant appointment with tenure at the Associate Professor level.
- National or international reputation in the field of collections or technical services librarianship.
- Significant record of participation in relevant professional associations.

Rank/Salary:

This is a full-time, permanent, 12-month tenure-track faculty appointment. Salary and faculty rank are dependent on qualifications and experience.

Benefits:

The University offers competitive benefits in the form of 22 days vacation, 15 days sick leave, 10 holidays, hospitalization, major medical, surgical-medical, dental, vision, long-term disability insurance, and life insurance at 2.5 times one's annual salary. Position Description
University Library

Title: Director, Financial and Physical Resources

Classification: Exempt; Leadership Phase 2

Incumbent: Vacant

Reports to: Dean, University Library

Revision Date: March 2011

The University Library is comprised of seven physical locations situated around the University campus, and employs approximately 150 FTE faculty and staff. The work of the Dean’s Office supports the library system. The University Library Strategic Plan sets an ambitious program for the transformation of library collections, facilities, services, and its organizational culture, designed to ensure the library’s continued growth and development over the course of the University's second century of development.

Primary Purpose of the Position:
This leadership position within the University Library works closely with University Library senior leadership including the Dean, Associate and Assistant Deans, Head of Library Systems & IT, and the Human Resources Manager. The Director, Financial and Physical Resources provides leadership, direction and expertise to promote and enhance fiscal leadership through long-term financial strategy and planning, monitoring, management and reporting, including the management of policies, systems and processes. The Director provides expertise to the library’s senior leadership about space design and allocation including major capital projects, building maintenance matters, refurbishment plans, and furnishings. The Director is responsible for ensuring processes and procedures are in place and risks are mitigated to ensure the safety and security of employees, visitors, collections, and facilities for all library locations, working collaboratively with the Facilities Management Division, Workplace Safety and Environmental Protection, and Campus Safety. The Director holds overall accountability for the administrative service operations of the Dean’s Office.

Nature of the Work:
This position reports directly to the Dean of the University Library, and works closely with the Associate and Assistant Deans, Head of Library Systems & IT, Human Resources Manager, and Library Branch/Unit Heads. The Director is the primary contact with the Financial Services Division for financial resource management, and with the Facilities Management Division for space and infrastructure issues. The work is unstructured and frequently time critical; of high volume of work requiring complex problem solving, with the need for accuracy and frequently confidentiality. This position requires discretion, a high level of integrity and independent judgment. The position must deal with emerging and unpredictable events in a sensitive and timely manner, and therefore evening and weekend work may be necessary to resolve issues. This position is required to work in an environment where it is critical to balance the needs of multiple stakeholders, both internal and external, towards positive outcomes within resource constraints. A high level of concentration is required for continuous planning and for dealing with multiple projects with competing priorities. The position requires a commitment to accountability, transparency, governance and continuous improvement. The Director is responsible for the success of one direct report and four indirect reports, and will supervise temporary project-related employees from time to time.

Accountabilities:

Financial Resources

- Works collaboratively with the Dean to allocate funds appropriately to ensure that the Library’s strategic priorities are developed and executed
- Is the expert advisor to the Dean in relation to the development of financial strategies and planning for the library
- Ensures that comprehensive and sustainable annual and long-term multi-year resource plans for the Library are developed and implemented, in alignment with the Library strategic plan
- Understands the University’s resource allocation mechanisms and projects the impact of changes in parameters on revenue and expense allocation, and identifies strategies to affect outcomes
- Oversees all financial management activities for the Library, including oversight of the library’s operating budget, capital funding, IT allocation, special funds, targeted funds, and trust and endowment funds.
  - Works collaboratively with the Human Resources Manager who oversees the library’s salary budget
  - Works collaboratively with the Head, Library Systems & IT to identify emerging IT funding needs, managing within existing resources and identifying supplemental funding sources
  - Works collaboratively with the Library’s Development Officer to remain abreast of current Library advancement initiatives, and to understand University advancement processes
- Oversees the budget process, information technology funding agreements, financial risks are effectively managed, coordinated and overseen to ensure resources are used effectively, efficiencies are achieved, duplication is reduced, plans and budgets are sustained, and that opportunities for new resources are successfully pursued
  - Sets achievable revenue targets, based on analysis of past history and emerging trends
- Works closely with the Assistant Dean (Services to Libraries) to monitor expenditures and external factors impacting on the Acquisitions Budget (e.g. currency fluctuations).
- Works with designated senior leaders responsible for the targeted funding allocated to SHIRP and AHSL
Ensures timely and accurate financial reconciliation of accounts, reporting and analysis that supports informed strategic and operational decisions
• Ensures timely processing of payments and invoices and depositing of revenues
• Maintains the integrity of financial information by ensuring that financial data is complete and accurate and complies with legislation, general accounting principles, best practices, agreements with external parties, and U of S policies and procedures
  o Works closely with Purchasing Services to develop RFPs and RFQs, and to develop service contracts with vendors in a timely manner and in compliance with legislation and university policies
• Leads special financial projects that are complex and require a high degree of analysis and recommendation of proactive management solutions
• Ensures opportunities to gain additional funding, joint initiatives/partnerships, or alternate use of existing budgetary resources are identified and investigated
• Develops and implements policies and procedures to ensure the Library has robust internal financial controls in place.
• Acts as the primary point of contact with the Financial Services Division and Audit Services

People Resources
• Supports the success of direct and indirect reports by mentoring, coaching, and managing performance
  o Direct reports: Library Support Services Manager
  o Indirect reports: 3 clerical assistants, 1 truck driver
• Ensures that direct and indirect reports are held accountable for high standards of performance and outcomes that are aligned with the vision and direction of the college and university
• Model a high standard of performance and outcomes, ensure positive, diverse and inclusive work environments
• Works closely with the Human Resources Manager as required to fulfill these accountabilities

Physical Resources
• As the primary contact with FMD for all Library facilities, projects or maintenance issues, ensures the accurate exchange of technical and factual information and the timely addressing of issues
• Ensures that space/facilities planning, renovation and refurbishment projects deliver the required functionality and quality expected by stakeholders (students, faculty and staff), while ensuring the work is completed on time and in a cost-efficient manner
• Plays a significant role in the planning and execution of capital projects (e.g. the move to the new health sciences library)
• Leads project teams as required to achieve desired outcomes, utilizing project management methodology
• Works with the Dean to develop long-term space/facility plans, including long-term planning for growth and the refreshing of capital equipment
• Coordinates the logistics for the restoration of water-damaged books, works with staff in the affected areas in managing the removal and restoration/replacement of the items, and liaises with the Facilities Management Division regarding building repairs
  o Ensures communication with stakeholders occurs through liaison with the Assistant Deans
• Involved with the coordination of the safe study service operating out of the Murray Library, from the perspective of the safety and security of the physical space
• Develops effective, collaborative professional working relationships and partnerships both internal and external to the Library
  o Key campus relationships include Financial Services Division, Facilities Management Division, Audit Services, Campus Safety, Workplace Health Safety & Environment, University Learning Centre, Risk Management

Risk Management
• Fosters and promotes a culture of responsible risk taking
• Ensures the Library’s exposure to risk/liability is mitigated, by identifying and coordinating activities
• Develops appropriate policies, procedures and processes to ensure:
  o a safe working environment for employees and visitors ▪ in collaboration with the Human Resources Manager, WSEP and the Health & Wellness Resource Centre, resolves specific ergonomic needs and identifies funding to address the deficiencies o that risks to collections and facilities are identified and mitigated o that federal and provincial laws and regulations are complied with o that university policies, procedures and regulations are effectively implemented, interpreted and communicated ▪ that the Library complies with the University signing authority policy, including ensuring due diligence
  o that internal controls are in place, and deficiencies and weaknesses are identified and rectified
• Oversight of the fire evacuation drills for the Murray Building (including the Library, the Gwenna Moss Center for Teaching Effectiveness, Starbucks Café, University Learning Centre, and University Archives)
• Chairs the Local Safety Committee
• May serve on the University’s Ergonomic Committee

Administration
• Oversight of the functioning of the administrative service operations of the Dean’s Office o Administrative service operations includes:
    ▪ provision of clerical support within the Dean’s Office
    ▪ library and office supplies for the Library
    ▪ telephones, postage, printing
    ▪ computer lab and room bookings
Director, Financial and Physical Resources

- coordinating library hours
- key control
- cash deposits from library fines, etc.
- minor work requests and repairs, including elevators
- office equipment (i.e. faxes, printers, photocopiers)
- sorting and delivery of mail and library materials for the Library
- assignment of study carrels and lockers
- maintaining the library’s restoration plan for water-damaged items
- positively influences the direction of the Library through active participation, as required, with the Library senior leadership
- contributes to the direction of the University through membership on University committees as appropriate
- seeks opportunities to collaborate and share information with others on campus with similar areas of responsibility
- ensures success of projects through the provision of effective project management, coordination or facilitation for a variety of project types – renovations, events, disasters, etc.

Qualifications:

Education: A bachelor’s degree in commerce, specializing in finance or accounting, plus a professional accounting designation.

Experience: A minimum of 5 years of progressively responsible experience in a financial leadership role; significant experience with managing multiple projects with changing and conflicting priorities is essential for this position. Experience with strategic planning, financial analysis and financial reporting is also required. Experience with UniFi would be a definite asset.

Skills: Demonstrated ability to lead and motivate others; ability to develop strong professional relationships; solutions oriented with the ability to provide innovation to problem solving; ability to maintain confidentiality and handle sensitive matters diplomatically and discreetly; ability to think creatively and strategically; the ability to interpret and communicate financial information and systems to a non-financial audience; attention to detail and a high level of accuracy; effective organizational, time and stress management skills; demonstrated effective interpersonal skills; ability to demonstrate tact, diplomacy, and discretion; demonstrated ability to collaborate with a wide range of people; effective research, analysis and writing skills; proficiency in the use of advanced spreadsheet applications/functions and database applications.

Performance competencies: The incumbent will be responsible for meeting the performance competencies for the position in the areas of leadership/vision, support for progress, results orientation, personal effectiveness, communication, and relationship building.
POSITION DESCRIPTION
Associate Director, Digital Services Division
Senior Level Service

Introduction

The Associate Director, Digital Services Division, serves as one of the senior executives reporting to the Director of the Smithsonian Institution Libraries (SIL) and is responsible for planning, organizing, administering, developing, implementing, and coordinating all activities for the SIL web presence, digitization of SIL content, coordination of web 2.0 activities, product development and licensing, and associated e-commerce activities. The Smithsonian Institution Libraries is a complex library system consisting of 20 branches located in Smithsonian museums, research institutes and other offices in New York City, the Republic of Panama, and the Washington, D.C. area. The incumbent administers the program and staff of the Digital Services Division, on which each of the Libraries’ 20 branches depend to provide essential services: web-content management, digitization, electronic publication, computer support and instruction, and digital image processing. In total, the departments that make up this division serve Smithsonian researchers through a variety of web-based services and a world-wide audience of over four million unique yearly visitors. The Associate Director is responsible for identification and implementation of appropriate technologies to meet the diverse needs of Smithsonian researchers and visitors.

The Associate Director is a member of SIL’s executive management team and participates in administration of all matters affecting the Libraries, including policy development and implementation, budget oversight, and personnel. The incumbent represents the Libraries’ on SI-wide committees and working groups, such as the Digitization Planning Committee, Webmasters Group, the Web Strategy Team, Smithsonian 2.0, and others that formulate SI-wide policies and procedures concerning web strategies and digitization. The incumbent develops collaborative projects with museum and research staff and articulates funding proposals to internal as well as external sources. The incumbent serves as the main point of contact for all contracts relating to digital services. The incumbent serves on national and international committees and makes presentations to national and international groups on all areas that affect Smithsonian Libraries.

The Associate Director provides the leadership to direct the division in performing outstanding library digital services and the vision to seek new, innovative policies, programs and practices that continue to provide exceptional library services to the Smithsonian community.

Major Duties

Oversees management of personnel located in the Web Services Department, Information Services Department, SIL Imaging Center, and Digital Images Coordinator. Working as a team, the Division’s staff design, create, maintain, and promote a variety of web and other digital services for the SIL and SI communities, as well as for cooperative projects on a national and international scale. The Division also assists in the support of digital applications and work-related personal computer applications within the Libraries. In consultation with department heads, determines the mission, objects and goals for digital services and web-related projects and develops policies, procedures and workflow that will achieve these goals. Regularly reviews division success in meeting SI and SIL mission and goals. Within authority delegated by the Director, establishes personnel policies for the division and makes recommendations for selections, promotions, awards, and other personnel actions including disciplinary actions. Establishes performance standards and evaluates performance following SI and SIL guidelines and schedules. Determines staff training and development needs and makes recommendations to meet these. Vigorously promotes two-way communication with all division staff as a means to maintaining high morale and achieving excellent service.

Administers the information technology program of the Libraries and coordinates it with other programs within and external to the Smithsonian. Determines the mission, objectives, and goals for information technology and leads staff in formulation of needs and selection of appropriate technologies to meet those needs most effectively. Establishes broad policies, procedures, and priorities for information technology that will lead to achievement of goals. Works with subordinate staff to interpret policies and solve problems, and adjusts priorities, schedules, and resources to meet changing requirements. Plans, implements, and monitors program to ensure security of all SIL automated systems.

Manages large-scale national and international digitization projects, such as the Biodiversity Heritage Library, in which SIL is engaged, frequently attending international meetings and workshops and making presentations as requested.

Represents information technology needs and concerns, but with an overview of the entire Smithsonian Institution Libraries system and a thorough understanding of the program requirements of the Institution for library services and technology use. Participates fully in the overall administration and management of the Libraries through membership in the SIL Executive Committee and may serve as Acting Director in the Director’s absence. Shares equally in development and documentation of SIL’s long- and short-range planning efforts, fund-raising activities, budget decisions, personnel policy formulation, and major organizational changes.

Working closely with staff from all SIL units, plans and develops SIL’s online presence, SIL’s digital publications (digital editions, online exhibitions, etc.) as well as new modes of electronic outreach (blogs, wikis, etc.). Recognizing the rapid pace of change to standards, policies, and procedures in the digital arena, the lack of standard policies, procedures, and practices regarding digital applications, draws in best thinking from the larger community and the Institution in general and guides formulation of SIL strategies and approaches. Provides guidance and leadership to SIL staff in all areas of digital engagement.

Works closely with the staff of the Smithsonian Institution Scholarly Press to develop new publishing platforms for Smithsonian scholarly content and to streamline workflow and provide readers with the optimum reading experiences. Maintains strong cooperative relationships with the Chief Information Officer and other senior administrators in the Institution concerned with information technology policy, planning and implementation. Serves as SIL’s representative to Institution-wide planning groups and committees on matters concerned with uses of technology within the Institution. Represents the interests of the Libraries on the national and international level, through active participation in professional organizations and through presentations and publications. Acts as expert consultant to other research libraries, museums and associations on matters relating to information technology and policy development.

Monitors changing professional, technological and workplace events with a view to taking the best advantage of new developments and new opportunities for enhancing the efficient operation of the division. Interprets trends and assesses impacts of trends in digital and web services. Makes recommendations on development of new programs.

Works closely with the staff of the 20 branches and other units to ensure timely, reliable support for digital and web-related services. Maintains good communication with department and branch heads regarding procedures and practices that affect service, including participation in the Branch Librarians group and other formal or informal SIL groups.

Participates fully in the administration and management of the Libraries through membership in the SIL Executive Committee. As needed, serves as Acting Director in the Director’s absence. Shares equally in development and documentation of SIL’s long- and short-range planning efforts, fund-raising activities, budget decisions, personnel policy formulation, and major organizational changes.

Represents digital and web-related services, activities and concerns within SIL and to the SI community. More broadly, serves as a spokesperson for the SIL, representing its mission and goals to the Institution and beyond. Provides information and advice on issues regarding digitization in general and automated library services.

Factors

Knowledge Required

A full understanding of the major technological, structural, and substantive issues confronting research libraries and political and technical skill in developing and administering information technology projects to support library services and operations. Specialized knowledge of programs, procedures, management, and technological infrastructure of the SIL.

Thorough knowledge of theories and practices of library, museum, and business information technology in order to develop and maintain an up-to-date technological infrastructure for the SIL that interfaces well with other systems used within the Smithsonian. Specialized knowledge of digital technologies and their application within research libraries and museums.

A successful professional experience of at least three years in managing library digitization services for a large university or research library, as demonstrated by reports of successful installations of large digital libraries.
SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION
Associate Director, Digital Services Division

Expert knowledge of technology industry trends and issues as they relate to computer applications in research libraries and museums.

Mastery of library technology marketplace to solve highly complex problems; to develop new and innovative approaches to policies, programs, and methods; and to serve as an authority for other libraries or library systems.

Excellent written and oral communication skills as shown by publications or public presentations.

Supervisory Controls

The Associate Director for Digital Services reports to the Director of Libraries. The incumbent exercises considerable authority and independence in the administration of web, information services, and digital imaging units, interpreting both Institution and Libraries’ missions, objectives, policies, etc. The incumbent serves as technical expert and authoritative source for information regarding all aspects of web services and digitization. Work is reviewed for results only.

Guidelines

The incumbent works within established federal and Smithsonian policies but shares in the development of long- and short-range planning efforts, budget decisions, library-wide policy formulation, organizational changes, etc. The incumbent also takes into account industry, Institution, and library standards in areas such as integrated library systems, acquisitions, cataloging, and document delivery to ensure that SIL practices are compatible. As a senior executive of the SIL, the incumbent is responsible for implementation of staff and general policies, requiring considerable personal judgment and initiative.

Complexity

The position involves highly complex web and digital library services issues as well as considerable supervisory and administrative duties and a broad understanding of all Smithsonian Institution directives, programs and applications regarding contracts, fund accounting, collection management, etc. in order to meet the requirements of SIL operations and services. Substantive political and technical skills are required to guide SIL staff in planning for and employing new technological applications and standards in support of digital services. Smithsonian requirements for digital services differ from standard academic institutions due in part to the need to conform to federal guidelines, the multiplicity of separate administrative units, and the relationship to the museum community; therefore, the incumbent cannot rely completely on existing models. The position involves assessing, evaluating and implementing new technologies to improve technical and automated library services.

Scope and Effect

The purpose of the work is to analyze major issues in digitization, web presentation, information access and dissemination or to develop authoritative new approaches, methods, or standards to resolve critical or highly unusual information problems. The work affects the policies, standards, and principles used by librarians, the development of major aspects of library programs, or the efficiency of library services rendered to clientele within or outside the agency or major component. The work directly affects the users of the Libraries, both Smithsonian Institution staff and national and international scholars dependent on information about and access to SIL collections for scholarly research.

Personal Contacts

The incumbent has extensive and intensive contacts with fellow SIL executives, senior Smithsonian administrators; other SI personnel including researchers and scholars; the international library and information science community; and his/her own staff.

Purpose of Contacts

The contacts are to ensure the provision of timely, thorough, accurate technical and automated library services to the Libraries and the Smithsonian community. The incumbent maintains strong cooperative relations with other members of SIL’s senior executive staff to assure that the needs for technical and automated library services are met. Contacts within and without the Smithsonian are to establish and maintain consultative relationships and to exchange information. Contacts within the national and international library community are for the purpose of exploring and implementing cooperative programs and projects to increase the resources available to SIL staff, as well as to identify and assess trends in technical and automated library services. The high level of contacts requires character, tact, and sound judgment.

Physical Demands

The work is largely sedentary; however, walking, bending and climbing usual in libraries is occasionally present.

Work Environment

The work environment is a normal office setting suitable for the post. The office is currently physically located in Washington, D.C. in the National Museum of Natural History.
Position purpose: to enhance the quality of undergraduate education and improve student outcomes.

1) Provide undergraduate education expertise and recommendations.
   a) Identify trends and best practices in undergraduate academic education and identify leading providers of undergraduate education in libraries
   b) Build relationships across the academic community to support and enhance undergraduate education
   c) Build relationships across the academic community to provide education to those who teach on how the Library enhances student outcomes

      ii) Recommend actions for collecting and using information and data about SU undergraduates’ academic activities to strengthen library services
      iii) Drive new service initiatives
      iv) Identify the role technology plays in the undergraduate learning process
   e) Work with students, student organizations, and others as appropriate to gain understanding of undergraduate students from their perspective

2) Create infrastructure to develop and administer technology-based (e.g., online) educational programs focused on undergraduate library use.
   a) Identify experts within and outside of the library with whom to work collaboratively to develop and maintain technology-based educational materials (e.g., podcasts, video, and other web-based tools) to replace current classroom-based general research skills/information literacy instruction program
   b) Create an assessment process for undergraduate educational programs to ensure relevance and meet changing and expanding needs

3) Provide administrative oversight for the Learning Commons (Bird Library and Carnegie Building)
   a) Provide direction to the Learning Commons Director
      i) Oversee the ongoing development of the Learning Commons
      ii) Create and secure implementation of library fellow program to develop and mentor new librarians in undergraduate services roles and responsibilities
   b) Lead the planning for the renovation of Learning Commons spaces in collaboration with other Library administrators

4) Librarian Personnel Administrator
   a) Manage recruitment, searches, performance reviews, retirements and resignations for librarians and professional staff (usually classified as SS and above);
   b) Manage promotion/permanent status and emeritus status processes for librarians.
   c) Oversee the Librarians’ Manual

5) Disability Services
   a) Provide leadership for the Library’s Disability Services program

6) Other
   a) Participate in any relevant dialogue on undergraduate education
   b) Ensure the provision of appropriate environments for student engagement;
      i) Provide input on any discussion of the library’s public learning spaces, e.g., study rooms, classrooms, open study spaces, etc.
   c) Contribute to the overall leadership of the library and actively engage in the academic community
