News and Announcements

The next UA Study Abroad Fair will take place November 5, 2008 on the mall.
The Study Abroad Application Deadline for Spring 2009 is October 15, 2008.

Office of Study Abroad and Student Exchange

The University of Arizona offers opportunities to undergraduate and graduate/professional students to study abroad in more than 50 countries. UA ranks nineteenth among Doctoral/Research institutions in the number of students studying abroad, according to the most recent data (Institute for International Education, 2007). In 2005-06, 1,611 students participated in study abroad and student exchange programs.

Brigham Young University
JERUSALEM CENTER
for Near Eastern Studies

BYU Jerusalem Center

Beginning in 2009, the BYU Jerusalem Center will eliminate the short 2-month programs and offer three 4-month programs on an annual basis. Program dates and application time-periods are outlined in the general information.

For the present, eligibility is limited to students enrolled at BYU, BYU-Idaho, or BYU-Hawaii.

What is the BYU Jerusalem Center?

The Jerusalem Center is Brigham Young University's center for study in Jerusalem. Students enroll through the BYU campus in Provo, Utah, travel to the Holy Land, and live in the Center for programs that extend for four months. Students study a core curriculum that focuses on Old and New Testament, ancient and modern Near Eastern studies, and language (Hebrew and Arabic). Classroom study is built around field trips that cover the length and breadth of the Holy Land.

The Center itself is a beautiful building on Mount Scopus overlooking the Mount of Olives, the Kidron Valley, and the Old City. The 125,000 square-foot, eight-level structure is set amid five acres of beautifully landscaped gardens. The first five levels (moving up from the lowest level) provide dormitory and apartment space for up to 170 students. Dormitory rooms accommodate four people with ample study space and a private bath. Each of these rooms has a patio overlooking the Old City. The sixth level houses a cafeteria, classrooms, computer facilities, and a gymnasium. Administrative and faculty offices are located on the seventh level, as is a 250-seat auditorium. The main entry is on the eighth level, which also contains a spectacular recital and special events auditorium with organ, lecture rooms, general and reserve libraries, offices, a domed theater, and a learning resource area.

Are the BYU Jerusalem Center facilities open to the public?

The facilities at the Jerusalem Center are available only to full-time students formally enrolled in a BYU Jerusalem Center program. For those interested in visiting the building, a 45-60 minute tour is available. The tour includes a hosting video, a ten-minute organ recital, and a tour of the eighth floor and the Jerusalem Center gardens. To schedule a tour or to obtain information on tour availability, please contact the hosting staff at the Jerusalem Center by calling 011-972-2-626-5666.

Learning Center

The learning center is a beautiful, large, open room with dark blue carpeting set against limestone pillars and arches that divide the room into 12 connected spaces. The learning center is used for special events and can accommodate all students and staff for special dinners and gatherings. A smaller anteroom provides space for receptions and hosting visiting officials. A balcony, the highest at the Center, provides the best view of the old and new Jerusalem.

All About Studying Abroad

In support of the University's mission to "promote the process of lifelong learning from both global and integrative perspectives," the Office for Study Abroad offers international education opportunities through the University's overseas study centers, international exchange partners, and affiliated organizations. As an extension of the University's academic program, GW's study abroad programs provide access to high quality international education programs in expanding geographic destinations to serve a diverse student population representing a wide array of academic disciplines. As educators, we facilitate the academic, personal, professional, and intercultural development of students through the programs and services we provide.

Join Student Listserv

The Office for Study Abroad maintains a listserv for all students and alumni of the study abroad program. We send out important information concerning meeting schedules, announcements, program representative visits, and special events. Generally, one to five messages per week are sent on the listserv, so it will not be a burden to your email account. Join the listserv now!

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS

The mission of the Office of International Programs (OIP) at Georgetown University is to foster the international character of the University by promoting, supporting, and developing a wide range of international and intercultural educational opportunities for members of the Georgetown community.

The Office is divided into two divisions. The Division of International Student and Scholar Services (IS) supports international students and scholars in deriving the maximum advantage from their educational and research experiences at Georgetown. The Division of Overseas Studies (OS) develops and administers international educational opportunities overseas for GU students. The Executive Director of International Programs, Katherine S. Bellows, oversees both divisions.

In coordinating these, and other international projects, the Office of International Programs seeks to foster a sense of community that builds on the universalism of the University's intellectual tradition, and encourages many voices to be heard. OIP facilitates these cross-cultural discussions by sponsoring exchanges of students and faculty and serving as a resource for departments and schools on campus that undertake international and intercultural initiatives.

Welcome to the Division of Overseas Studies website where you will find information about study abroad programs in countries throughout the world.

The mission of Overseas Studies at Georgetown University is to promote, support, and develop international and intercultural educational opportunities for students, and in so doing, help to define the international character of Georgetown. These programs are developed and evaluated in collaboration with the wider Georgetown community to ensure that they are academically rigorous, linguistically appropriate, and complementary to the Georgetown curriculum. In keeping with the Jesuit philosophy of education and service, these overseas opportunities invite participants to reflect on the values that form their own identities, and encourage them to assume their roles as responsible world citizens.

The Office of International Programs offers more than 120 programs in 39 countries. We welcome you to visit our office, discuss your interests, and discover the possibilities of study abroad.

Welcome to Study Abroad at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

"Study Abroad was the best academic and personal choice I have made in college. I learned more about Spain, America and myself than I could have imagined, and in the process improved my Spanish conversation skills and confidence 10-fold." ~ Megan O'Connell: Granada, Spain Sum 06.

"Study Abroad was a turning point in my life. It was the best thing I have done thus far. I saw amazing things and met great people from all over the world. Along with this I learned a great deal about myself and the people in the world." ~ Spencer Masterson: Christchurch, New Zealand, Fall 06.

Academic Offerings

Earn credit for your major or minor or try something new! Undergraduate and graduate students can explore their field from an international perspective or step out of their major and take classes in another area of interest. Some programs also offer options for volunteering, internships, or conducting research.

Location

We offer study abroad programs in nearly 60 countries and on every continent except for one--Antarctica!

Length

Students can go abroad for a year, semester, summer, and winter or spring break.

Price

Programs vary considerably in cost. Some are comparable to studying at Illinois, while others can be more expensive. Scholarships are available and financial aid can be applied towards study abroad. We will help you find a program within your budget!

Welcome

For decades, the Office of Overseas Study has helped students earn IU credit by exploring educational opportunities throughout the world.

The Office of Overseas Study

- Facilitates the IU study abroad experiences of over 1,800 students on all eight Indiana University campuses,
- Offers a variety of exceptional programs chosen or developed to maintain IU's high academic standards,
- Fosters opportunities for international and cross-cultural experience,
- Gives more than $75,000 in need and merit-based scholarships annually and works to ensure programs remain affordable, and
- Provides guidance to help students integrate study abroad into their academic plans and graduate on time.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Office of Overseas Study is to promote study abroad by Indiana University students through participation in quality programs in a wide range of disciplines. The purpose is to enhance international awareness and understanding and enrich curricula on every campus of the university, as well as to expand educational opportunities abroad for students from diverse backgrounds.

The College of Design Rome Program offers an optional course of study for qualified students in various disciplines within the college.

The college's flagship international program has given more than 1000 students the opportunity to study in Rome since its inception in 1991. It is the only fully licensed study-abroad program in the Iowa Regents' system.

Full-semester study options are available for art and design (fall) and architecture (spring) students. In the summer an interdisciplinary program brings students together from all departments in the college. Qualified students from other institutions are also welcome to enroll in the summer session. Iowa State University faculty members and European lecturers teach students in English.

Students attend classes at our studio facilities in the historic center of Rome. In January 2005, the program moved to its new home at Palazzo Cenci-Bolognetti, a sixteenth-century edifice located in the Piazza delle Cinque Scole near the Tiber River. In addition to developing first-hand knowledge of numerous contemporary and historic sites, buildings and works of art, students gain a familiarity with the contemporary design culture of Europe through guided field trips and complete major studio projects in their design area.

Study Abroad

The International Center offers students a wide range of opportunities to study abroad. The University of Louisville offers direct Study Abroad opportunities in various locales around the globe, including short-term programs in China, Panama, Portugal, and Trinidad & Tobago. We also have a special relationship with the University of Quebec at Chicoutimi in Canada.

Through special consortia arrangements with the Cooperative Center for Study Abroad (CCSA), the Kentucky Institute for International Study (KIIIS), and International Studies Abroad (ISA), students may do short-term and long-term programs in over 30 countries around the world.

Students are also welcome to work with the Study Abroad staff to identify other qualified educational programs through other hosts.

How the program works

Students work with Study Abroad advisors to identify potential programs for their studies abroad. Considerations may include academic goals, destination possibilities, duration of study, and cost. Once the program is selected, potential courses are also identified and a draft budget drawn up. The student will prepare the applications and gather documentation for review with academic and financial advisors. Acceptance to the Study Abroad program and completion of the U of L paperwork will lead the student to a successful program abroad.

Students apply and register for all U of L-sponsored programs at U of L. These include the short-term programs in China, Panama, Portugal, and Trinidad & Tobago. Students also register for short-term CCSA Study Abroad courses at U of L. They must complete a "Cooperative Center for Study Abroad" course information form.

The short-term summer University of Quebec program at Chicoutimi, Canada is coordinated by Dr. Wendy Yoder in the Department of Classical and Modern Languages. Special scholarships may apply to help defray the costs. Please see Classical and Modern Languages website for more information.

Process for studying abroad

1. Visit the International Center, check out the literature in the IC library and meet with a Study Abroad advisor. Complete the Study Abroad Interest Form.
2. With your advisor, narrow down your program options, identify potential courses, and do an estimate of program costs.
3. Meet with your academic advisor to determine how the course or courses will fit into your U of L program of study.
4. Submit your application for the Study Abroad program, leaving a copy for your file at the IC. Submit application for passport if you do not already have one. Submit applications for scholarships, if available.
5. Complete the U of L paperwork for the IC files, including the Course Certification form, the financial aid consortia agreement (if needed), and the Study Abroad Cost Estimate form.
6. Meet with a financial aid advisor to determine how to handle the cost of the program.
7. Once accepted to your Study Abroad program, meet with a Study Abroad advisor to review remaining IC paperwork.

Programs & Courses

NC State PRAGUE INSTITUTE, An Initiative of the College of Design

The Prague Institute offers the opportunity for any student to study for a summer, semester or year in Prague through a variety of design studios and general education courses. Special programs are offered at times through several NC State University colleges and departments.

Located in the medieval center of Prague, the Institute is convenient to art galleries, book shops, art supply stores as well as an outdoor fruit and vegetable market, cafes, and restaurants.

Students commute about 20 minutes from their residence, a small hotel (pension) located on a hill overlooking the city via subway or tram. It is located in Vinohrady a popular section of Prague with a grocery store, markets and restaurants nearby. In warmer weather, there is a yard and outdoor sitting area. Breakfast is included and each room has a refrigerator and kettle. The Institute is equipped with 3 kitchens, so cooking and meal preparation happens there.

The facilities at the Institute include wireless internet connection, kitchens, computer lab with laser and color inkjet printers. One night a week Czech films with English subtitles are shown on Movie Night shown in the lecture/seminar room. Opera or ballet, jazz concerts and other evening events are included. Excursions to a variety of destinations either within the Czech Republic or another European city are planned.

The cost of one semester is $9200 while the 6 ½ week summer session costs $4700. Costs vary for the Special programs (check the Study Abroad site). The fees include tuition and fees, housing with breakfast, internet access at the Institute, excursions and cultural events, international health insurance, in-city travel passes, and orientation materials are included. Costs are the same for in and out-of-state students. If interested in more than one session, inquire about our special "package" prices.

All courses are taught in English by either NC State professors and/or Czech instructors/professionals with equivalent credentials. All students earn NC State University credit which is transferable to other institutions by transcript.

Step 1: Take the mandatory Study Abroad 101 Quiz on Blackboard.

- To register for the quiz, email studyabroad@northwestern.edu with "Study Abroad 101" in the subject line. Include your name and NetID in the email.
- Be patient! Registration takes places once a week, and you will receive a confirmation email with instructions at that time. You can take the quiz as many times as needed to score a 90% or above.
- NOTE: Students planning on applying to a Northwestern-run summer program only do NOT need to complete the Quiz and should instead consult the individual summer program pages for application instructions.

Step 2: After successfully earning a 90% or above on the quiz, stop by the Study Abroad Office (630 Dartmouth Place) to pick up the NU Application for Permission to Study Abroad. This application is not available online and must be picked up in person. Applications for Summer 2009 and the 2009-2010 academic year will be available in early Fall 2008.

Step 3: (Strongly recommended) Schedule an appointment with a Study Abroad Adviser to discuss program options and specific concerns. For students interested in studying abroad on a Non-Northwestern summer program, this step IS required and students should plan on meeting with a study abroad advisor well in advance of the March 5 summer deadline.

Step 4: Apply to study abroad.

- June 2: Winter/Spring 2009 application deadline
- Deadlines for 2009-10 will be posted in Fall 2008.

EDUCATION ABROAD

Welcome from the Director

Welcome to your portal to education abroad at Ohio University. Whether you hope to study in Australia, learn ancient Greek in the shadow of Greek ruins, research tropical disease vectors in Ecuador, trace the history of Italian art in Florence, partake in a joint consulting project with businesses in Hungary, or uncover the program that best matches your curricular and personal goals, the Office of Education Abroad is here to help you.

Education abroad, be it studying, interning, teaching, working, or volunteering, is an opportunity for you to expand your academic and personal horizons, and learn more about yourself, other cultures, and the way in which people across the globe live and work together every day. You'll develop and enhance soft skills valued by employers and graduate schools, such as flexibility, the ability to think on your feet, and a good sense of humor.

Please take some time to browse through our website. You'll find information on how to choose the best program for you, program offerings, health and safety tips, and more. When you're ready to map out your own education abroad plan, please come in for walk-in advising from 1-4 Monday through Friday during the quarter.

We look forward to helping you chart your expedition abroad!

Welcome to Education Abroad!

What Does the Education Abroad Office Do? Our office is responsible for sending outgoing students abroad and receiving incoming short-term exchange students from partner universities around the world. Each of our advisors is responsible for a variety of countries, working with both the incoming and outgoing students for those regions.

What Models of Study Abroad Do We Have? Our primary model for study abroad programs is reciprocal exchange for one or two semesters. In contrast, our summer programs vary from one month of language immersion to faculty-led options that move from city to city within one country. Available programs are listed in the Programs Abroad section of this site.

Who Can Study Abroad? All University of Oklahoma students are encouraged to explore the possibilities for study abroad. Don't make assumptions about whether study abroad will work for you -- check it out now!

What if I want to be an exchange student at OU? If you are a student or colleague at a partner university, please look at the Incoming Exchange Student section of this site.

Welcome to OSU's Study Abroad/National Student Exchange Office!

"It's not about what I've seen and done, it's who the experience has allowed me to become."
- Jessica, Japan

Our office coordinates a variety of programs, both international and domestic, that help students to connect to the world. Services provided by the office include:

- ◆ Individualized Study Abroad and National Student Exchange advising
- ◆ Information on financial aid, grants and scholarships
- ◆ A comprehensive resource library of study and travel materials
- ◆ Liaison between international universities and study abroad students
- ◆ Orientations for incoming and outgoing students and their families
- ◆ Informational seminars and presentations to campus groups upon request
- ◆ Mentoring program for incoming international exchange students

The links at the left will give you information about opportunities for study abroad. Which program will you choose to begin your adventures?

Current OSU students interested in studying abroad should explore the "Prospective Participants" section to learn about the programs available to them for study at partner institutions in other countries, and in the U.S. and U.S. territories.

International students interested in a semester or academic year abroad at OSU should click on the links under "International Exchange Students" for more information.

Current OSU students who have already applied to a program and/or who are currently abroad should follow the links under "Current Participants".

Study Abroad

Yale Summer Session Study Abroad offers students the intellectual challenge they expect from Yale in classrooms that spill out onto the streets of the world. First-hand experience of foreign cultures is a basic component of a Yale education: it not only complements the student's academic study of international topics, but is also fundamental to the student's own personal development as a global citizen. We hope that studying abroad with Yale Summer Session will mark the beginning of a lifetime of encounters with members of the new global community.
